THE THOMPSON SUBMACHINE GUN

A new type of firearm combining the portability of the rifle with the effectiveness of a machine gun

THE THOMPSON SUBMACHINE GUN is a combined light machine gun and semi-automatic shoulder rifle. By simply moving a latch resting under the thumb, it can instantly be changed from a semi-automatic rifle firing one shot at a time to a machine gun firing at the rate of 1,000 or more shots per minute. Magazines hold 25, 50 or 100 cartridges.

14TH CAVALRY TOURNAMENT.

The largest and best military tournament and horse show ever given by the 14th Cavalry was held on May 28 and 29, at the headquarters of the regiment, Fort Des Moines, Iowa. Large crowds were present on both days and the proceeds go to the Army Relief Society. The many large and beautiful cups were donated by interested persons and business houses in Des Moines. There was not a dull moment during the two days' performance. The riding was exceptionally good and the horses were never in better shape to make a splendid appearance. Troop B, 14th Cav., commanded by Capt. John C. Mullenix, won the highest number of points in the military tournament. The two-mile steeplechase, which was the feature of the horse show, was won by "Reds," Capt. Edward Shaifer, 14th Cav., owner, up. Major Gen. and Mrs. Omar Bundy and Governor and Mrs. Kendall were guests of Col. and Mrs. Robert A. Brown during the show. Events and winners of first places, all being members of the 14th Cavalry, were:

AMERICAN COURTS IN HAITI.

To Try Instigators of Disorder.

Secretary of the Navy Denby on June 13 authorized a statement that with the full approval of the President of Haiti, the trial of persons accused of instigating disorder, bloodshed or rebellion, libel, etc., has been transferred for the present from the Haitian courts to those established by the American forces in Haiti, by an order issued May 26 at Port au Prince, by Col. John H. Russell, commanding U.S. forces ashore.

For several months past, in view of the approaching elections, the columns of the Haitian press have been filled with comment on members of the government, candidates and political aspirants, and the American forces have come in for their share of abuse by the section of the press opposed to the occupation. At first the speeches and articles were mild, as in the old days the usual response was imprisonment by the government, or assault or assassination in case the person attacked was a private citizen. The rule of law and order established by the American occupation ended this. But the Haitian courts from time immemorial have refused consistently to convict or sentence any Haitian for libel or inciting disorder, fearing that a successful revolution might bring the friends of those sentenced into power. Finding that no punishment followed their attacks Haitian orators and writers have grown bolder, until denunciation has mounted to frenzy and it was feared that popular outbursts might occur.

Realizing the serious menace to the peace President Darguenave conferred with the American authorities, urging that action be taken. In response Colonel Russell laid the situation before the Navy Department and received authorization to bring offenders before an American court. It is believed that the knowledge that trial before an unprejudiced and un intimidated court awaits offenders who advocate disorder will meet the situation and prevent incendiary utterances. On May 26 he issued a proclamation containing a warning against attempts to stir up disorder and also against libelous speeches. This was submitted to the President of Haiti, and received his formal approval. The proclamation states that while the freedom of the press and of speech are practically unrestricted, articles or speeches that are of an incendiary nature or reflect adversely upon the United States Forces in Haiti, or tend to stir up an agitation, or attacking the Haitian government, are prohibited and offenders will be brought to trial before a military tribunal.

HOLDING THE GRADE.

Status of Non-Coms. Who Held Commissions.

A correspondent calls attention to varying conditions existing in the different arms as to the status of former emergency officers who took advantage of the law and re-enlisted in their former non-com. grades in the assurance that they would hold these grades and not be subject to demotion for any cause short of court-martial sentence. Our correspondent, who is in the Signal Corps, has suffered demotion as a result of examination and he believes that such calamity could not or would not happen in the Infantry, for instance. Let us see what the facts are.

The act approved March 30, 1918, entitled "An act to provide for restoration to former grades of enlisted men discharged to accept commissions and for other purposes," entitled any former officer to re-enlist in the grade which he held at the time he was discharged for the purpose of accepting a commission. The provisions of this act are further carried out by Circular 130, W.D., Dec. 9, 1918. Of the privilege of re-enlisting in the grades as specified there can be no question, and that privilege was allowed in all cases. Concerning the retention in that grade after enlistment the law makes no ruling, and the matter is only covered indirectly by one order of the War Department contained in Circular 87, W.D., March 19, 1921, which states:

The number of non-commissioned officers on July 31, 1921, must not exceed the number authorized by the act of June 4, 1920, except that non-commissioned officers who have served as officers during the war and have re-enlisted in their former grades in accordance with Circular 130, W.D., 1919, may be retained as extra numbers until absorbed. It will be noted that the wording of this order is not mandatory, or in other words, there is no intention to remove from the various proper authorities the right to promote and demote which is given by law.

Now, as to competency required in the Signal Corps.—Par. 1557, Army Regulations, states "men may be enlisted for the Signal Corps at the discretion of the Chief Signal Officer of the Army in the class or grade for which they are competent and for which there is a vacancy. They will be promoted and reduced, in the class or grade as fixed by law, by the Chief Signal Officer of the Army or his authority." It appears, therefore, that the grade in which the man in question was enlisted was fixed by law, but there is nothing which requires his being retained in that grade unless the Chief Signal Officer of the Army so desires. The holding of the grade of master sergeant in the Signal Corps has depended for many years, with the exception of the comparatively short time of active operations in the recent war, upon the passing of an examination given by the office of the Chief Signal Officer. Upon the completion of hostilities and the return to peace conditions within the Army it was decided by the Chief Signal Officer, that due to the fact that many men were holding the grade of master sergeant who had been junior during the war to men who were not authorized for enlistment in the grade of master sergeant, it would be the best policy to adjust as soon as possible by means of examination as many of the discrepancies as possible. In this decision he was acting well within his right as laid down in the Army Regulations quoted above.

Concerning the points brought up in our correspondent's letter which not the differences which exist in the various branches of the Service in the matter of examinations for promotion to the higher non-commissioned grades, that matter is one which rests entirely with the different Services. The Signal Corps, as an officer of that corps states, "has found it desirable and has decided to require thorough examinations. The decisions of the other branches in no way affect the decision reached by the Signal Corps, nor is the Signal Corps in any way required to adjust its methods for promotion to those of other branches."

THE MILITARY SURGEON FOR JUNE.

The Wellcome First Prize Essay for 1920, which was won by Lieut. Col. L. C. Duncan, M.C., U.S.A., is the leading article in The Military Surgeon for June. Colonel Duncan's essay is entitled "The Part of the Medical Department in Maintaining Military Morale." The essay with the same title by Lieut. Col. Gustavus M. Bloch, M.C., Ill. N.G., which won an honorable mention in the contest, is also published in this issue. Other articles by officers of the Medical Corps of the Regular Army include "A Department of Epidemiology for Army Divisions," by Lieut. Col. O. G. Brown. Harrison G. Dyar and C. S. Ludlow contribute "A Note on Two Panama Mosquitoes" and Dr. William P. Finney, Jr., describes "Malignant Tumors in the U.S. Army, 1917-1919."

NEW YORK STATE BONUS FOR SOLDIERS.

Adjutant Gen. J. Leslie Kincaid, of New York, chairman of the State Bonus Commission, has ruled that when the bonus is ready for payment the first cases to be considered are those where distress is most acute. He announced on June 11 that it was his desire that actual suffering on the part of World War veterans or their beneficiaries shall be relieved immediately when the bonus machinery is started.

PRINTING AT GOVERNMENT EXPENSE.

Limitation of Semi-Official Publications.

Due to the activities of the Congressional Joint Committee on Printing there have been many suspensions of Army publications in the past year. The War Department has, however, requested the continued printing of the following publications after Dec. 1, 1921: Stray Shots, issued at U.S. Disciplinary Barracks, Fort Leavenworth; Coast Artillery Information Bulletin, Journal of the U.S. Artillery, and Annual Report of Commandant Coast Artillery School, issued at Coast Artillery School, Fort Monroe, Va.; Lake Survey Bulletin (Corps of Engineers), annual edition issued from Government Printing Office, monthly supplements printed by contract at Detroit, Mich.; Information Bulletin, issued at Field Artillery School, Fort Sill, Okla.; Slipstream, issued at McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio; Chemical Warfare, issued at Edgewood Arsenal, Md.; Projector, issued at Lakehurst Proving Ground, N.J.; The Midnight Sun, at Fort Gibbon, Alaska; Information Bulletin, at Office of Chief Signal Officer; Bulletin of the Field Medical Service School, at Carlisle, Pa.; Library of the General Staff College, at Government Printing Office; Camp Devens Bayonet, at Camp Devens, Mass.; Fort Ethan Allen Gossip, at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt.; Coast Defense News, at Fort Dupont, Del.; Fort Myer Guidon, at Fort Myer, Va.; The Forty Niner, by 49th Infantry, Fort Snelling, Minn.; Barrack-Bag, at Columbus Barracks, Ohio; Education and Recreation Notes, at Camp A. A. Humphreys, Va.; Recruiting News, at Governors Island, N.Y.

It is pointed out to commanding generals of corps areas and department, chiefs of War Department branches, and commanding officers of exempted places, that no periodical can be printed at Government expense unless its publication has been specifically authorized by Congress or sanctioned by the Joint Committee on Printing; that no periodical printed at Government expense shall contain any paid advertising. Periodicals may be printed without any expense to the Government provided the word "expense" is construed to include that pertaining to office space, heat, light, labor of personnel, paper, ink, etc., and that the periodical shall not be published as an "official publication." Samples of such periodicals must be forwarded to the Joint Committee on Printing, U.S. Capitol, Washington, D.C., and the The Adjutant General's Office as soon as issued, and each copy should contain a statement that the periodical is published without expense to the Government. Pending further Congressional action the mimeographing of periodicals may be continued on authority obtained from The Adjutant General. It is stated that "careful attention to the provisions of these regulations is enjoined upon all concerned." They are based upon instructions received from the Joint Committee on Printing and any non-compliance therewith will be prejudicial to the interests of War Department printing throughout the Service.

The Navy Department, in a letter issued June 17 notifying all interested as to printing regulations, states that so far as known, the only publications of the naval service which may be continued are: Daily Shipping Bulletin, issued by Naval Communication Service, New York; 4th Regiment News, by Marine Corps at Santiago, D.R.; Golden Gate Sentinel, at Naval Training Station, San Francisco; Great Lakes Bulletin, at Great Lakes Naval Training Station; Guam News Letter, at Guam; Mare Island Employee, at navy yard, Mare Island, Calif.; Mutual Welfare News, at Naval Prison, Portsmouth, N.H.; Navigator, at naval air station, Pensacola, Fla.; Newport Recruit, at training station, Newport, R.I.; North Island Naval Air Current, at air station, San Diego, Calif.; Peep Sight, at marine barracks, Mare Island; Periscope, at submarine base, San Pedro, Calif.; Recruiters' Bulletin, by Marine Corps Recruiting Publicity Bureau, New York; Submarine Base Journal, at submarine base, New London, Conn.

It is stated that some of these publications may have been discontinued, and the Navy Department invited reports concerning other publications which should be continued. Until further orders from the Secretary of the Navy the following printing plants will continue in operation as at present: Brooklyn, N.Y.—Naval Supply Depot, Headquarters 3d Naval District, Navy Yard Radio Laboratory, Navy Yard Supply Department, Mare Island—Naval Ammunition Depot, Naval Prison, Marine Barracks, New London—Submarine Base, Newport—Naval Torpedo Station, Parris Island, S.C.—Marine Corps Training Station, Pensacola, Fla.—Naval Air Station, Philadelphia—Marine Corps Supply Depot, Portsmouth, Va.—Naval Ammunition Depot, Puget Sound, Wash.—Naval Ammunition Depot, Quantico, Va.—Marine Barracks, San Pedro, Calif.—Submarine Base.

COMPTROLLER'S DECISIONS.

Private Property Lost or Destroyed in Military Service.

Claims or items of claims for loss or destruction of private property in the military service occurring under circumstances which were not allowable under the act of July 9, 1918, but which would be allowable under the provisions of the act of March 4, 1921, and which were filed under the former act and disallowed by the Auditor for the War Department, may be presented by the claimant under the provisions of the act of March 4, 1921, within the period prescribed thereby, for consideration and determination by the Secretary of War.

Coast Guard Alaska Duty Pay.

Commissioned officers of the Coast Guard are entitled for shore duty in Alaska to the ten per cent. additional of their pay prescribed for commissioned officers of the Navy on shore duty beyond the continental limits of the United States. To this decision of April 4 the Comptroller adds: "Warrant officers of the Coast Guard are entitled for shore duty in Alaska to the pay authorized by law for warrant officers of the Navy on sea duty."

Proportional Compensation in National Guard.

A proviso of the first paragraph of Sec. 110 of the National Defense act reads "That when any man enters into an enlistment other than an immediate re-enlistment he shall be entitled to proportional compensation for that year if during the remainder of the year he shall attend a number of drills whose ratio to twenty-four is not less than the ratio of the part of the year so served to the whole year; and when any man's enlistment shall expire the compensation, if any, to which he may be entitled shall be determined in like manner." The Auditor for the War Department has submitted an original construction of this proviso for approval, etc. It reads: "During the remainder of the year" means from the date of enlistment to the end of the calendar year, over which space of time attendance is required at a number of drills bearing a certain ratio to a fixed minimum proportional to the ratio of the period served during the year to the entire year. . . . I am therefore of the opinion that where an individual enlists in the National Guard during the first semi-annual period he should not receive drill pay at the end thereof, but that his service during the second semi-annual period should be considered in connection therewith and payment made at the end of the year if the other requirements of the proviso are fulfilled." The Comptroller adds to this, in his decision of April 8, "the case submitted by the Auditor relates to the drill pay of an enlisted man of the National Guard for service in the first semi-annual period of the calendar year 1919. His decision is approved."

Retainer Pay of N.R.F. Provisionals.

There is no authority for a greater payment than $12 per annum to members of the Naval Reserve Force holding provisional ranks, grades or ratings. This decision was given by the Comptroller on April 27 in response to a letter of inquiry from the Secretary of the Navy "(1) as to whether members of the N.R.F. holding provisional ranks or ratings are entitled to an increase of twenty-five per cent. of their base retainer pay for every four years previous service in the Navy, Marine Corps, Naval Militia or National Naval Volunteers; and (2) whether members of the N.R.F. who have served one complete enrolment therein and who re-enrolled in provisional ranks or ratings are entitled to twenty-five per cent. increase in their base retainer pay provided they have performed the minimum amount of active duty required to maintain their efficiency, and that they re-enroll within four months from the date of the expiration of their prior enrolment."

No N.R.F. Duty Pay for 31st Day of Any Month.

Members of the Naval Reserve Force who are recalled to active duty for training on July 31 may not be paid active duty pay for that day, the Comptroller says, their compensation coming within the application of Sec. 6, act of June 30, 1906, "which excludes the thirty-first day of any month from the computation of pay."

Expert Rifleman's Pay.

An enlisted man in the Army who was receiving additional pay as an expert rifleman cannot resume that status on enlisting again after serving as a commissioned officer without requalification, the Comptroller decides in a decision of April 4.

CRITICISMS OF "SLACKER LIST" ANSWERED.

From the moment it became apparent to the War Department that it would be necessary at some time to publish the lists of names of men who stood on the records as deserters from the emergency Army doubts arose as to how the published lists could be made perfect, human error and human carelessness entering so largely into a scheme so broad as the Selective Service law. These doubts were forced aside by the pressure of public agitation and the lists began to appear in the daily press with the result of much abusive criticism for the War Department and the Army officers, ill-founded though most of this criticism and abuse was. This storm of abuse has reached the point where the War Department finds it necessary to issue a defense of its course of action in this whole matter. The statement recalls the insistent demands for the publication of the list and notes the careful checking up of names and records, which were submitted to state governors and adjutants general as well as chairmen of local draft boards, while registrants were urged to communicate with the War Department if they were doubtful of their status. The ostensible ground of criticism of the resulting list has been the claim that it contains a large percentage of errors. The statement says, in part: "As a matter of fact, although approximately 40,000 names have thus far been published, it has become necessary to remove those of only twenty-three registrants who actually rendered service during the war and in the majority of these cases, their names were not previously eliminated because they gave their names or other identifying information differently upon enlistment in the Service, than was given in their draft records. The large percentage of error imputed to exist in the published lists is therefore apparently based upon the large number of cases of men who are claiming that their names should not have been published as deserters, these uninvestigated claims being utilized to create a popular clamor against the publication of any additional lists. It is perhaps only natural that bona-fide draft deserters should seek to avoid punishment and shame through practicing deception regarding their status." It is added that the publication of the lists not only assists the innocent, as well as punishes the guilty, but is the only satisfactory means of clearing the records of men erroneously charged with desertion. The fact that the names of a few men will be removed from the lists by reason of their having rendered service, should not be utilized to shield the names of the thousands of men who failed to answer their country's call.

NAVAL RADIO COMPASS STATIONS EFFECTIVE WORK.

In a recent letter from the force afloat, Vice Admiral H. P. Jones, U.S.N., commander of the Battleship Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet, stated that during a recent passage of the Battleship Division Five from Hampton Roads to Boston, navigation was accomplished by the employment of the shore radio compass stations, submarine bells and soundings. He wrote: "From the time that departure was taken and until Boston lightship was picked up, not a light vessel of lighthouse was seen. The fog was so continuous and dense that during most of the passage the ships astern of the division flagship were invisible. During this intense fog, the division was maneuvered, Nantucket Shoals Light passed abeam, Cape Cod rounded, Boston lightship picked up and the division secured at Boston Navy Yard within a few hours of the projected time of arrival. Had it not been for the radio compass situation, the arrival of Battleship Division Five would have been greatly delayed. This practical demonstration of radio direction finding is a clear indication of the military value of radio compass station, and of the necessity of continued development along the lines." The naval shore radio compass stations are not only serving Navy vessels, but are also furnishing the shipping of the world information which enables the mariner to establish his position. About 2,500 ships each month receive radio compass bearings, which have been the means of preventing many ships from being lost in a fog or storm.

MAJOR J. G. EMERY HEADS AMERICAN LEGION.

Major John G. Emery, late U.S.A., of Grand Rapids, Mich., was unanimously elected national commander of the American Legion at a meeting of the National Executive Committee at Indianapolis, Ind., on June 4, to succeed Col. Frederick W. Galbraith, jr., Capt. Thomas J. Bannigan, of Hartford, Conn., was elected vice commander, succeeding Major Emery. Major Emery was born in Grand Rapids, Mich., July 4, 1881, and entered the second officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan Aug. 27, 1917. After finishing the course he was commissioned a captain of Infantry and sent to France with the first group of Americans. Among other duties he was assigned to command Co. F, 18th Inf., U.S.A., 1st Brigade, 1st Division. He participated in all the major actions with his regiment in 1918, at Cantigny in April, May and June; at St. Mihiel in September, and in the Meuse-Argonne offensive in September and October. He was commissioned a major of Infantry Aug. 30, 1918. On Oct. 9, 1918, during the Meuse-Argonne drive, Major Emery was wounded in the left arm and was invalided home, being discharged at Camp Custer. Captain Bannigan is Connecticut State Adjutant of the legion. He served in the Quartermaster Corps during the World War and is a native of Utica, N.Y.

CAPE COD CANAL PRICE AGREED ON.

In conformity with the provisions of the Rivers and Harbors act of Aug. 8, 1917, the Secretaries of War, of the Navy and of Commerce, acting as a board, have determined upon a purchase price for the Cape Cod Canal of $11,500,000. This action will be sent to Congress for approval and appropriation. It follows on the action of the Circuit Court of Appeals which reversed a verdict given in the United States Courts in Boston, Mass., valuing the property at $16,651,000. The statement issued by the War Department in relation to this matter on June 11 says that there are outstanding canal company bonds aggregating $6,000,000, interest of five per cent. and thirty-nine years to run. These are to remain outstanding, the Government having the right to call them at par at any time, so that the actual appropriation required is $5,500,000 less any cash that may be in the treasury. In addition to previous negotiations, 600 acres of land owned by the construction company is included in this purchase. On July 25, 1918, the canal company was taken over by the Railroad Administration and administered by it until Feb. 25, 1920, when it was turned over to the War Department.

INVENTIONS MADE BY ARMY MEMBERS.

The Adjutant General will shortly issue orders to the Army on the subject of inventions by Army officers, enlisted men and civilian employees of the War Department and Army. These orders will state the policy of the War Department to be the encouragement of the development of new inventions. In consideration of its assistance given in the prosecution of applications for patents the department will require of such officers, enlisted men and employees no more than a license to manufacture and use or have manufactured and used such inventions or patents for governmental use. This requirement is the least that may be called for under the act of 1910, known as the non-exclusive license, thereby reserving to the patentees complete freedom and ownership of the patent in its commercial application. The War Department will also require an agreement from the patentee authorizing the Government to sell, without the payment of royalty, any articles embodying the patent when such articles are no longer required for government use. Normally all inventions, processes and formulas, in which the class of persons under consideration will be interested, fall within the following classes: Those of strictly military importance and use which should remain secret and be exclusively owned by the Government; those which may be of immediate or future military use in which the Government should retain a non-exclusive license; those which are of no direct present military use, but which possibly would tend to increase production of supplies in the event of a major emergency. In special cases of inventions or patents of great military value or importance the War Department will require an exclusive license as to both domestic

GERMANY'S CASUALTIES IN WORLD WAR 6,888,982.

In an address before the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States at Boston on June 3 Comdr. William S. Bainbridge, U.S.N.R.F., said that Germany's total casualties during the World War were 6,888,982, divided as follows: Killed in battle, 1,537,148; missing, 991,340; wounded, 4,211,481; died of disease, 155,013. He said these figures were arrived at through two years' service in Germany during the war as an observer and from the study of official and semi-official publications and statements in German, Dutch and Scandinavian publications. The Commander added that it had been positively established, however, that ninety per cent. of the German wounded were refitted for service in the field or at hospitals or rendered self-supporting. Of the sick and wounded who reached the home hospitals in Germany only 1.6 per cent. died.

END OF PORT OF EMBARKATION, HOBOKEN, N.J.

Orders issued by The Adjutant General by direction of the Secretary of War state that the designation "Port of Embarkation, Hoboken, N.J." is discontinued as of June 30. The office of the Assistant Chief of Transportation Service at Hoboken, which was authorized by the Secretary of War on June 2, 1920, will be discontinued on June 30. The transport sailings and arrivals will be under the direct supervision of the General Superintendent, Army Transport Service, Pier 2, Hoboken. Communications with reference to the Army Transport Service which have, during the fiscal year 1921, been sent to the Assistant Chief of Transportation Service at Hoboken, will after June 25 be addressed to the Quartermaster General, Washington, D.C.

SETTLEMENT OF WAR CLAIMS.

Between March 1 and May 31 last the War Department Claims Board adjusted 240 claims, the amount approved for payment in adjustment being $8,661,088.38. The total number of claims disposed of is 379 according to this report and the total amount of the claims $54,621,025.70. The number of claims awaiting settlement on May 31 were 269 and the total amount of these claims $40,674,757.66.

LINE UPHOLD IN HOSPITAL SHIP CASE.

Navy Medical Officer and Military Command.

The question as to whether a medical officer can at any time exercise military command over a line officer has evidently been settled in favor of the line by Secretary Denby, who has disapproved the sentence of dismissal by a general court-martial of a line officer for disobeying the command of an officer of the Medical Corps. Lieut. Comdr. Athol G. George, U.S.N. R.F., attached to and serving as navigator on the hospital ship Mercy, was tried by G.C.M. convened by Admiral Hugh Rodman, commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet, on the charge of "disobeying the lawful order of his superior officer." This consisted of his disobeying an order of Comdr. William M. Garton, Med. Corps, U.S.N., the commanding officer of the Mercy. The court returned a verdict of guilty and sentenced Lieutenant Commander George to be dismissed from the U.S. Naval Service. Secretary Denby on June 22 stated that he had disapproved of the proceedings, findings and sentence of the court on the ground that Commander Garton "did not have authority under the law to issue an order to Lieutenant Commander George, an officer of the line of the U.S. Naval Reserve Force, in that Commander Garton could not exercise military command over an officer of the line."

For many years the old Navy Regulations provided that "officers of the staff shall, under the commanding officer, have all necessary authority within their particular departments for the due performance of their respective duties, and they shall be obeyed accordingly by their subordinates. They shall not, by virtue of rank and precedence . . . have authority to exercise command, except in their own corps."

In the revision of Navy Regulations approved Dec. 17, 1920, Article 170 provides: "(1) An officer of the Medical Corps of the Navy not below the rank of lieutenant commander, may command a hospital ship or ambulance ship." Article 153 provides that: "Officers of the staff shall, under the commanding officer, have all necessary authority within their particular departments . . . and they shall be obeyed accordingly by their subordinates. They shall not, by virtue of rank and precedence . . . have authority to exercise command, except in their own corps and except as provided in Articles 170 and 171." Article 171 provides that line officers may be detailed for duty under staff officers in the manufacturing and repair departments of navy yards and naval stations.

Prior to the 1920 revision, Par. 3 of Article 209, Navy Regulations, provided that "all orders for a hospital ship shall be given through the commanding officer, who shall have the general direction of the movements of the vessel, leaving the master, however, to exercise full and unquestioned control and authority over all matters within his technical purview, and for which he is professionally responsible. Any order from the commanding officer relating to other than the medical department of the ship shall be given to or through the master." Masters in former days were members of the Fleet Auxiliary Reserve, were on a civilian status, and engaged at monthly stipends. Since the discontinuance of the Auxiliary Reserve the hospital ships as a rule have been navigated by Naval Reserve officers on an active duty status. The origin of the regulation placing hospital ships in command of officers of the Medical Corps goes back to the administration of former President Roosevelt, who ordered the Bureau of Navigation to adopt the regulation. It is recalled that Rear Admiral W. H. Brownson, then Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, who strongly disapproved of the purpose of the order, thereupon resigned the office of chief of bureau. The President at the time held that hospital ships were analogous to private yachts, on which the master gives the orders which are carried out by the sailing master, and in his view Medical Corps officers were as competent as ship's masters to give orders as to the movements of a ship. On the other hand, it was contended that hospital ships were auxiliaries and it was questioned whether officers of the permanent line of the Navy could legally be assigned to command such vessels. The act of Aug. 29, 1916, provided that Naval Reserve officers may man auxiliary vessels of the Fleet, and since that time hospital ships have been navigated by Naval Reserve officers. It is stated, on behalf of the Medical Corps, that The Hague and Geneva Conventions, to which the United States was a signatory, provided that naval hospital ships must be manned by civilians. The question at issue, however, has been that of a medical officer exercising military command over an officer of the line and in this case Secretary Denby has clearly enunciated a policy that denies such authority to the medical officer.

MEDALS IN LIEU OF BREVETS.

House Committee Reports Bill Favorably.

Prospects are encouraging that the bill (S.1360) authorizing award of the D.S.C. or the D.S.M. to Army officers nominated for brevet for gallantry during the war with Spain, the Philippine Insurrection or China Relief Expedition will become a law. The Senate passed the bill on June 6, as has been noted, and recently it was considered by the House Committee on Military Affairs, where it received unanimous indorsement. Representative Miller of Washington was selected by Chairman Kahn to report it favorably to the House, and everything seems favorable to its passage whenever it is called up for consideration and a vote. There is one feature, however, that should be given attention. When Senator Spencer of the Committee on Military Affairs reported the bill to the Senate he stated that the nominations made by the President for brevet commissions and referred to the Senate for confirmation, but which never were acted upon, the list of which is to be the guide for the award of medals under the provisions of the present bill, would be found in Volume 35, Part III, 57th Congress, first session, pages 3067 to 3078, in the Congressional Record of March 20, 1902. This list contains the names of more than 500 officers affected, but it is not complete; for in January, 1899, a list was referred to the Senate including some or all of this 500, and also others not included in that list. The list referred to by Senator Spencer was made up by what was known as the MacArthur Board, of which the late Major Gen. Arthur MacArthur was president. Its policy was not to include any officer unless he was recommended by his regimental or his immediate commanding officer to receive brevet commission for especially meritorious services or extraordinary heroism or gallantry. This policy left out a number of meritorious officers because of circumstances which made it impossible for their commanding officer or regimental officer to make such recommendation.

For example, Col. W. S. Wood, Q.M.C., who in 1898 was a lieutenant of Cavalry, was highly commended by General Shafter for gallantry at Santiago, was recommended by General Sumner to the President for promotion, and was recommended for brevet for most gallant conduct under heavy fire of shrapnel and small arms at San Juan Hill, where he was wounded. But his name is not included in the list referred to in the Congressional Record of March 20, 1902; the reason being that the officer commanding his organization was killed shortly after the engagement in which the then Lieutenant Wood distinguished himself; for want of this officer's recommendation he was left off the list. Another officer, then Capt. George J. Newgarden, assistant surgeon, U.S.A., was recommended for brevet for meritorious service in attending the wounded under fire at Santiago on July 1, 1898. Owing to the circumstances it was not possible for his immediate commanding or regimental officer to recommend him for the second list, hence he is left off the 1902 list, but is on the earlier list of 1899. No doubt there are many other instances of officers who merit the distinction, but who were not included in the list of 1902. There is nothing in the bill that will prohibit the awarding of the D.S.C. or D.S.M. to all the officers included in both lists in the Congressional Record, and the 1902 list should not be taken as complete or authoritative. It is understood that Representative Miller, when the bill comes up in the House, will call attention to this apparent oversight by the Senate and that nothing will go on record which might lead the Secretary of War to consider that the Congress intended only that the 1902 list in the Congressional Record should be used.

Another question in connection with the bill is whether the original recommendation for brevet will in itself entitle to the medal or cross, or whether there will be further reconsideration of the recommendation to consider whether it was based on "extraordinary heroism or gallantry in action or especially meritorious services." For example, in the case of Capt. Henry C. Keene, U.S.A., retired; as first lieutenant, 24th Infantry, he was recommended for brevet to captain by his regimental commander. The recommendation stated that his company had the largest number of wounded of any in the regiment and that he displayed "most soldierly qualities during the entire engagement" at Santiago. He was also recommended by two other officers who successively commanded his battalion; but the recommendation was not in the phrase embodied in the bill "for extraordinary heroism or gallantry in action or especially meritorious services." Presumably it would be held, however, that the recommendation made would "justify the award of the D.S.C. or the D.S.M."

WOULD ABOLISH AERONAUTICS COMMITTEE.

A joint resolution (S.J. Res. 77) was introduced by Senator Borah on June 17 abolishing the organization known as the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics, and transferring its property and duties to existing governmental agencies. In the War and Navy Departments this movement was generally credited to the advocates of the united air service plan with the idea of keeping it alive in the face of the general opposition to uniting the air services manifested in Congress, and particularly in the Senate. It is recalled that in the World War Great Britain had a similar advisory board composed of sixty of the foremost English scientists. When the Royal Air Force was organized the board was discontinued. A small group of men in the R.A.F., technical section attempted to make up for the absence of the board, but at the end of the war no scientific progress had been made in eighteen months. The members of the British board, after its discontinuance, organized a society to furnish aeronautical information to any who care to purchase it, so that instead of Great Britain having the sole benefit of the constructive abilities of this board the world at large is able to purchase this information and the United States has taken advantage of that opportunity. France, always alive and keen to profit by the errors of other nations, noting what happened in Great Britain and how abolition of the advisory board had checked progress, and noting the fact that the American Advisory Board was a non-partisan and ably conducted organization and practically the only official body which could encourage aeronautical advancement, organized an advisory committee patterned after the American plan within the last year. Japan followed and engaged English, French and German aeronautical engineers for membership on the Japanese advisory board.

No country in the world has at its command the services of more distinguished engineers and no single industry could hope to gather together and compensate a board composed of the men forming the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics. It includes Orville Wright, inventor of the airplane; Samuel W. Stratton, director of National Bureau of Standards, at Washington; Charles D. Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution; Joseph S. Ames, director of physical laboratory at Johns Hopkins University; William F. Durand, professor of mechanical engineering at Leland Stanford Junior University; John E. Hayford, director of College of Engineering, Northwestern University; Charles F. Marvin, Chief United States Weather Bureau; Michael I. Pupin, professor of electro-mechanics, Columbia University. These eight leaders in science, with two members from the Army and two from the Navy, the latter including Rear Admiral David W. Taylor, whose fame as an engineer is worldwide, compose the cost-free advisory board whose abolition is sought. If the United States, through the adoption of the Borah joint resolution, throws away as useless this group of foremost scientists, whose services are available without cost to the Government, it is stated by aviation officers in both the Army and the Navy that it will be a step backwards and a check which will be difficult to overcome.

OFFICERS WIN SUITS FOR COMPENSATION.

Decisions favorable to Capt. Paul Foley, U.S.N., and Comdr. Godfrey L. Carden, U.S.C.G., in their suits against the U.S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, for money claimed for services rendered, were handed down in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia on June 20 by Chief Justice McCoey. The contention of the defendant was that the claims of the plaintiffs were barred by the statutes from payment by the United States because, as it is alleged, the plaintiffs would be receiving dual compensation from the Government. Chief Justice McCoey said that as he understood the case the plaintiffs were not suing the United States Shipping Board, a Government agency, but the Emergency Fleet Corporation, a private organization incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia, and therefore liable for its contracts like any other private corporation. It was immaterial, he said, from what source the money came to make payment. In these cases a contract had been broken. There was nothing to indicate that the claimants were discharged from their positions in the Navy and Coast Guard services, respectively, during the period they were detailed for service with the Emergency Fleet Corporation. This contingency, however, had nothing to do with the cases in hand, and Chief Justice McCoey indicated that whether or not they were to receive payment for two positions at the same time was outside consideration of the court. Commander Carden alleges that while he was detailed with the Emergency Fleet Corporation it was agreed that he should be paid $584 a month as an allowance for expenses incidental to his services with the corporation. The period of detail was from Jan. 12, 1920, to March 1, 1921. He acknowledges receipt of payment of the allowance up to March 15, 1920, but claims that no payment was received from that date to March 1, 1921, the date the detail ended. It is for the sum accruing for that period, including interest, $7,016, that claim is made. In the case of Captain Foley the detail with the Emergency Fleet Corporation was from April 28, 1919, to March 1, 1921. He alleges that during the time he received his regular pay from the Navy, and on Jan. 7, 1919, while performing duties under the detail with the Emergency Fleet Corporation, the defendant agreed to pay him $500 a month as an allowance for expenses incident to his services. None of the monthly allowance was paid from April 1, 1920, to March 1, 1921, and he claims $5,500 with interest is due him. On June 17 the defendant noted an appeal in both cases.

APPLICATIONS FOR APPOINTMENT AS 2d LIEUTENANT.

For the purpose of removing the existing doubt as to whether candidates for commissions as second lieutenant in the Regular Army who were examined in April will be permitted to file applications for the August examination and to make available to those candidates who may feel that they may have failed in the written examination in April, the maximum possible time in which to prepare themselves for the August examination, if they desire to take those examinations, the War Department is sending a letter to each such candidate in the continental limits of the United States. The letter states: "You are listed as a candidate for appointment in the Regular Army who took the examination beginning April 25, 1921. The consideration of reports of examinations and the marking of papers is still in progress and it will be several weeks before the results of that examination can be announced. You will be informed of the result of your examination as early as practicable, and in any case before the beginning of the next final examination on Aug. 22. There is no objection to candidates who were examined in April making application for the August examination. Those who will still be eligible for appointment and who failed only in their written examinations will thus have another opportunity to compete for appointment and may be preparing themselves for examination in the meantime. This communication is being sent to all candidates who took the April examinations. It can not be construed by you as any indication of the result of that examination in your individual case. Neither can it be construed as having any bearing on your eligibility for future appointment, or upon your possible rejection for other than educational reasons."

FORMER GEN. DAWES TO BE DIRECTOR OF BUDGET.

Former Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes has been selected to be Director of the Budget by President Harding, according to an announcement made on June 21. The new Budget Director reached Washington on June 23 and stated that he would have to ask volunteer aid from business men to help him conduct the affairs of his new office. He also said he would ask the War Department to detail to his bureau Col. Henry C. Smith and Lieut. Col. George V. H. Mosely, both U.S.A., "because of their experience in organization work in the A.E.F."

RETIREMENT OF GENERAL MARCH.

Major Gen. Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff, U.S.A., will be placed on the retired list on Nov. 21, 1921, upon his own application after a distinguished service of thirty-seven years, during which he has demonstrated the greatest ability, especially in the vast and difficult problems he handled during the World War. He has shown remarkable executive qualities, zeal and energy, and a wide knowledge of military affairs. In our issue of June 18, page 1133, we spoke at length of the masterly ability which General March has displayed. General March, who would not have retired for age until 1928, will be relieved from duty as Chief of Staff by Gen. John J. Pershing on July 1 and will be granted leave from that time to the date of his retirement.

In making the announcement Secretary Weeks made public General March's application and also the Secretary's reply. Under date of June 14, 1921, General March wrote:

"My dear Mr. Secretary: I have before this indicated to you my desire to be retired from active service, but have not formally made such request in view of your strong insistence that I not take such action. In order that there may be no further delay in assigning other general officers to their permanent duties, I now request that I be placed on the retired list, under the provisions of Sec. 1243, Revised Statutes, effective Nov. 1, 1921, after thirty-seven years' service, which I am completing to-day, and enclose copies of orders to effect such action. The statute referred to authorizes the retirement of any officer of the Army, on his own request, after thirty years' service."

"I cannot sever my active connection with the War Department without expressing my appreciation of the unflinching consideration you have accorded me personally; and in the performance of my duties as Chief of Staff you have given me constant support. I wish and predict the greatest success for your administration of the affairs of the War Department."

Secretary Weeks wrote in reply, under date of June 16:

"My dear General: I have submitted to the President your application for retirement, to take effect Nov. 1, 1921, and he has directed that it be accepted. Your application for leave from July 1, when you will turn over the office of Chief of Staff, until the date of your retirement is also granted."

"I regret that you have decided to take this action because I am well aware of your value to the Service. Not only during my short term in this Department but during my service in the Senate I have had an opportunity to observe your conduct of the important position you have held, and I appreciate fully the very important results you have been able to accomplish. I especially wish to mention your success in directing the transportation of troops to Europe during the war, which was a service of great magnitude and in which you accomplished really remarkable results."

"I appreciate the very great assistance you have been to me since the 4th of March. Your aid and advice have been of the greatest value. I sincerely hope you may have many years of health and happiness."

General March was born in Pennsylvania Dec. 27, 1884, and was graduated from the U.S.M.A., June 11, 1888, and assigned as an additional second lieutenant to the 3d Artillery. He was promoted second lieutenant Nov. 30, 1888; first lieutenant, 5th Art., Oct. 25, 1894; captain, Art. Corps, Feb. 2, 1901; major, Jan. 25, 1907; assigned to 6th Field Artillery, June 6, 1907; A.G. (by detail), April 9, 1911; lieutenant colonel, 6th Field Art., Feb. 8, 1912; A.G. (by detail), Aug. 26, 1912; colonel, July 1, 1916; appointed brigadier general, June 17, 1917; major general, National Army, Aug. 5, 1917; major general, Sept. 23, 1917; general, U.S.A., May 20, 1918; honorably discharged as general, U.S.A., only, June 30, 1920. In addition to the above he served as major and lieutenant colonel of Volunteers in the 33d U.S. Volunteer Infantry, under Col. Luther R. Hare, in Philippine campaigns. He is a graduate of the Artillery School, 1898, and holds the degrees of A.B., 1884, A.M., 1887, LL.D., 1918, Lafayette College; LL.D., Union College, 1918.

During his service General March, among other duties, was captain of the Astor Battery, May 6, 1898, to Feb. 2, 1899. He took part in the expedition to the Philippines and was in the assault on and capture of Manila, Aug. 13, 1898. He served as aid to Major Gen. Arthur MacArthur, was A.A.G., 2d Division, 8th Army Corps, and took part in the engagements of the 2d Division at San Fernando, Calulut, Angeles and Porac. As an officer of the 33d U.S. Volunteer Infantry he took part in Wheaton's expedition to Lingayen Gulf, November, 1899, including engagements at San Fabian, Buntayan bridge and San Jacinto, and was detached with a battalion of the 33d Infantry to General Young, and commanded U.S. forces at Tilad Pass, Dec. 2, 1899, where General Gregorio del Pilar was killed. General March, then a major of Volunteers, received surrender of Gen. Venancio Concepcion, chief of staff to Aguinaldo, at Cayan, Dec. 5, 1899. He was in charge military and civil government in district comprising Lepanto-Bontoc and southern half Ilocos Sur, and was in charge of military and civil government, Province of Abra, to February, 1901; commissary general of prisoners, Philippine Islands, to June 30, 1901.

General March, among other subsequent duties, was a member of Field Artillery Board, member General Staff, on duty at Washington, D.C., as member provisional General Staff; again member General Staff, Aug. 15, 1903, to March 5, 1904; at Tokio, Japan, as military attaché, and in the field with Japanese troops, March 21 to Nov. 30, 1904; at Washington, office Chief of Staff; on duty at Fort Riley, commanding 1st Battalion, 6th Field Art., and as adjutant of the post; at Omaha, Neb., as A.G., Dept. of Missouri; on duty at Fort Riley with 6th Field Artillery; on duty at Chicago as A.G. Central Dept.; on duty at Texas City as adjutant, 2d Division; on duty in The A.G. Office, Washington; and was with regiment at Fort Bliss, Texas.

General March went to France June, 1917; was commanding Artillery of the A.E.F. to February, 1918; was detailed as member of General Staff, and Acting Chief of Staff, March 4, 1918, and as Chief of Staff, May 20, 1918; in Washington, which was his last detail.

He was awarded the D.S.M. for exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service; awarded D.S.C., also, Belgian Ordre de la Couronne (grand croix); British Order of St. Michael and St. George (Knight Grand Cross); Chinese Grand Cordon of the Order of the Precious Light of the Chia Ho (golden grain) (first class); French Legion d'Honneur (grand officer); Greek Order of George I (grand cross); Italian Order of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus (grand cross); Japanese Order of the Rising Sun (grand cordon); Rumanian Order of the Crown (grand cross).

General March after his retirement will, it is understood, travel abroad and later will devote his time to writing.

TWENTY-FIVE YEAR RETIREMENT.

Of the proposed twenty-five year retirement bill a correspondent writes: "I have not heard one single objection in this post and no doubt it is the same throughout the Army, that all are for it. If such a bill becomes a law then the old soldier will have something to look forward to and make life worth living. We are a hundred per cent. for it at this post, the young soldiers as well as the old soldiers; good luck to Master Sergeant Matlock, as well as this proposed bill."

PROMOTIONS AND RETIREMENTS.

Col. Robert E. Callan, Coast Art., U.S.A., appointed brigadier general to date from June 9, 1921, and whose nomination was confirmed by the Senate June 20, was born in Maryland March 24, 1874, and is a graduate of the U.S.M.A., class of 1896, when he was assigned to the 5th Artillery. During the World War he served as a temporary brigadier general and was awarded the D.S.M. for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services, as chief of staff of Army Artillery, 1st Army, and later, as commanding general, 33d Coast Artillery Brigade. Confronted with innumerable difficulties, "he developed the heavy artillery regiments under his command into combat units of remarkable efficiency, which units proved to be of the utmost value during the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives," the citation says. Colonel Callan during the war with Spain served with Light Battery D, 5th Artillery, at Daiquiri, Cuba, from July 9 to 20, and took part during the campaign in Porto Rico with the brigade under General Schwan. Among subsequent service he was a member of the torpedo board at Fort Totten, N.Y.; was assistant to the Chief of Artillery, 1907-9; served at Manila, and at various posts on the Atlantic coast. General Callan organized the 65th Regiment of Artillery at Fort Stevens, Ore., and sailed via the Panama Canal and New York, arriving at Liverpool, England, April 12, 1918, thence proceeding to France with it. The regiment was trained with 9.2-inch howitzers at Limoges. He was chief of staff, Army Artillery, 1st Army, June 1 to Aug. 15, 1918. He was assigned to command the 33d Artillery Brigade Aug. 19, continuing in command until Dec. 26, 1918. On returning to the United States in May, 1919, General Callan was assigned to duty in the office of Chief of Coast Artillery, being detached in August, 1920, on assignment to take the course at the General Staff College. He was awarded the decoration of an officer of the Legion of Honor by France, and also received the decoration of commander of the Order of the Crown from Italy. He is president of the 1896 class, U.S.M.A., which recently observed its twenty-fifth anniversary.

The advancement of Col. Robert E. Callan, U.S.A., to be a brigadier general, will result in the promotion of Lieut. Col. Patrick W. Guiney, Q.M. Corps, to the grade of colonel.

Promotions in the Regular Army.

The War Department on June 17 announced the following promotions in the Army, date of rank as noted: Lieut. Col. LeVert Coleman, C.A.C., 16 col., May 26, 1921. Major Guy E. Buckner, Inf., to lieut. col., Nov. 25, 1920. Major Rawson Warren, Cav., to lieut. col., Nov. 26, 1920. Major John H. Read, jr., Ord. Dept., to lieut. col., Dec. 14, 1920.

Lieut. Cols. Albert E. Waldron, Corps of Engrs., U.S.A., and Franck C. Jewell, Coast Art., U.S.A., have been nominated for promotion to the grade of colonel. These advancements are due to the retirement of Cols. Adrian S. Fleming and Lucien G. Berry, Field Art.

Lieut. Comdr. Samuel Gordon, C.E.C., U.S.N., was placed on the retired list on June 11 for disability incident to the service. He was born in New York, Sept. 19, 1883, and was appointed in the corps Jan. 2, 1906, after a previous service of four years and six months.

First Lieut. Thurwood Van Ornum, U.S.A., has been promoted to captain to date from July 1, 1920.

Cols. Lucien G. Berry, Field Art., Charles H. Paine, Inf., and John H. Rice, Ord. Dept., U.S.A., were placed upon the retired list on June 16, 1921, upon their own request after more than thirty years' service. Lieut. Col. Frederick B. Hennessey, Field Art., and Major Richard B. Clark, Dental Corps, U.S.A., were retired on June 16 for disability incident to the Service. We reserve note of the records of these officers for another week.

RECENT DEATHS.

Senior Capt. David Allen Hall, U.S. Coast Guard, retired, died in the Emergency Hospital, Washington, D. C., June 16, 1921, after an operation. Captain Hall was one of the best known officers of the Coast Guard and one of the most highly esteemed. He served as a commissioned officer in the U.S. Navy during the Civil War and had a distinguished Civil War record. He was born at Warren, R.I., June 23, 1843, and was appointed from that state as an officer of the Revenue Cutter Service on March 8, 1871. He was promoted through the different commissioned grades, and on May 27, 1895, was commissioned a captain. He was for a number of years, among other duties, prominently connected with the development of the Revenue Cutter School for the training of commissioned officers, now the Coast Guard Academy, and served as its superintendent from 1899 to 1902. He served a detail as superintendent of construction of the former Life-Saving Service, and was assigned to duty in connection with the building of new vessels for the Revenue Cutter Service. Captain Hall was retired for age on June 23, 1907, and was promoted to the next higher grade on the retired list on account of his Civil War record. For a number of years past Captain Hall made his home in Washington, usually spending the summer months in his home in Rhode Island. He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Sarah H. Hall, who resides at the Somerset Apartment on 16th street, Washington, D.C. Captain Hall was a member of the M.O.L.L.U.S., of the Army and Navy Club of Washington, the Order of Colonial Wars and the Huguenot Society. He had many friends in the various walks of official and social life in Washington. Funeral services were conducted June 18, followed by interment at Arlington with military honors.

Capt. Joseph E. Hall, Air Ser., U.S.A., died at the Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D.C., June 18, 1921.

Capt. Howard T. Douglas and Lieut. Maree J. Plumb, Air Ser., U.S.A., were drowned in the Chesapeake Bay, June 22, 1921, after a collision of their airplanes in the course of a bombing test directed at the bulk of the old battleship San Marcos off Tangier Island. Lieutenant Plumb, flying a single-seat airplane, was dropping bombs, and Captain Douglas, in a similar machine, was observing the raid from above. Lieutenant Plumb's airplane had just dropped a bomb and was climbing upward as is the custom after releasing the bomb, when it struck Captain Douglas's machine, cutting off its tail. Both machines fell into the bay and disappeared, together with their pilots, whose bodies had not been recovered up to the time we went to press. Langley Field officials reported that soon after the planes fell another of the bombing planes dropped a bomb containing 300 pounds of TNT and that it fell near where the machine went down. The terrific explosion of this bomb, it is stated, would make more difficult the recovery of the bodies. Captain Douglas, whose home was in Covina, Calif., was among the best known of Army fliers. He was commissioned in the Regular Service this year and went by rail ahead of the Army aviators on their recent flight to Alaska to select landing fields and make all arrangements for them. Lieutenant Plumb was also commissioned in the Regular Army this year, and his home was in Fond-du-Lac, Wis. He was one of the Army's most expert fliers.

Union services for the late Chaplain Charles C. Pierce, U.S.A., and Mrs. Pierce were held in the chapel in the hospital area at Camp Grant, Ill., on Sunday, June 19. Tributes to Chaplain Pierce were paid by Chaplain Wood speaking of him as a clergyman, Chaplain Hunter as an Army officer, Chaplain Colver as to his ministry to the bereaved and Chaplain Ford of his relation to the Chaplains' Service School. The service was largely attended by the officers and men on duty at Camp Grant.

Mrs. Annie L. Dampman, mother of Comdr. Paul E. Dampman, U.S.N., died at Reading, Pa., on June 20, 1921, in the seventieth year of her age.

Simpson Carl Stengel, jr., son of Lieut. S. C. Stengel, U.S.N., and Dorothy C. Stengel, died at Troy, N.Y., on June 18, 1921. The interment was at Arlington National Cemetery on June 21.

The infant daughter of Lieut. Harry L. Coates, U.S.A., and Mrs. Coates died at Columbus, Ga., June 11, 1921, aged four days.

Mrs. Mary C. McDermid, mother of Major N. L. McDermid, Med. Corps, U.S.A., died at Wilson, N.C., May 30, 1921.

Mrs. Vashti Saulsbury Garey, widow of Col. Robert J. W. Garey, of Caroline county, Md., and mother of Major Barton Enoch Garey, Inf., U.S.A., professor of military science and tactics at Johns Hopkins University, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Caleb Winslow, 1902 Mount Royal terrace, Baltimore, June 17, 1921. Funeral services were held at her late home in Denton, June 19, and interment was made in Denton Cemetery beside her husband, who died in 1885. Mrs. Garey was the only daughter of the late James W. Saulsbury, of Williston, a cousin of U.S. Senators Willard and Eli Saulsbury and Governor Saulsbury of Delaware. Her husband as second lieutenant of the 1st Eastern Shore Volunteers, Lockwood's Brigade, took it into action on Culp's Hill, Gettysburg, in the second day's fighting. "Mrs. Garey," writes a correspondent, "was a woman of exemplary Christian virtues and fine intellectual attainments and was held in universal esteem by an extensive circle of friends and acquaintances." She was in her sixty-fifth year. She is survived by six children—Robert S. Garey, of Philadelphia; Major Garey, James A. Garey, of New York; Miss Mary E. Garey, of Denton; Miss Vashti Garey and Mrs. Winslow, of Baltimore.

Mrs. Mary Bull, pioneer woman of the Fort Sill section of Oklahoma, and wife of John W. Bull, post engineer of Fort Sill for many years, died recently at Lawton, Okla., after a lingering illness. Her remains were buried in Lawton Cemetery. She was born June 3, 1857, at Baltimore, Md., and was married to John W. Bull on June 1, 1885, at Las Animas, Colo. Mrs. Bull is survived by her husband and daughters, Mrs. W. C. Sharp, Mrs. Lyle Ball, Mrs. Charles Keely, Mrs. Harry Alford, Mrs. Ray York and Mrs. Dewey Bull. Eight grandchildren survive also. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bull were pioneers in the Lawton country, and they are known to everyone at Fort Sill, especially among those who were acquainted with the life at the post during the early days.

Mrs. Laura Shepard Pierce, wife of Henry C. Pierce and mother of Col. Palmer E. Pierce, U.S.A., retired, died at her home Traer, Iowa, June 23, 1921, in her eighty-fourth year.

The Harold V. McMeans Perpetual Scholarship in memory of the only son of the late Alexander McMeans, one of the pioneer educators of Northern California, has been announced by Prof. James S. Sweet, of the Santa Rosa Business College. Ensign H. V. McMeans, an honor graduate of this institution, died at the Lafayette Radio Station, Bordeaux, during the spring of 1919. He was the brother of Mrs. E. H. Connor, wife of Lieutenant Commander Connor, U.S.N., and of Mrs. R. G. Coman, wife of Lieutenant Commander Coman, U.S.N., both residing at Coronado, Calif.

Major Gen. Charles P. Summerall, U.S.A., who during the World War was in command of the 1st Division in France, was guest of honor at a dinner given in New York city, June 22, by the New York branch of the 1st Division Association and Lieut. Jefferson Feigl Post, American Legion, at Brighton Beach. General Summerall received a silver mounted riding crop from his hosts. Major John G. Emery, National Commander of the American Legion, who commanded an Infantry battalion in the 1st Division, was one of the speakers. Other speakers were Brig. Gen. William Weigel, U.S.A., a former commander of the 2d Infantry Brigade of the 1st Division in France.

One of the gayest of the season's affairs at Camp Grant, Ill., was the lawn party given by Capt. John C. Daly, U.S.A., assistant director, Camp Grant schools; Capt. William H. Craig, aide-de-camp, and Capt. L. W. Foy, 51st Inf., at their residence in the cantonment in honor of Major Gen. George Bell, Jr., and Brig. Gen. William H. Sage, on the evening of June 4. The lawn was artistically illuminated with colored lights, and a dancing pavilion encircled with foliage and decorated with bunting was provided for the evening's entertainment. Music was furnished by a well known orchestra of Rockford. Over 100 guests were in attendance. Refreshments were served to the visitors in a large tent adjoining the grounds.

Col. and Mrs. Edgar Sirmyer entertained at dinner at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., June 17, in honor of Major Gen. W. A. Holbrook, U.S.A. Those present were Col. and Mrs. Taylor, Col. and Mrs. H. H. Smith of Virginia, Colonel Abbott, Col. and Mrs. Fred Brown and Major A. D. Newman, aid to General Holbrook. After dinner Mrs. Herman gave a piano recital which was greatly appreciated. At the reception for General Holbrook, those in the receiving line were Col. and Mrs. Sirmyer, Col. and Mrs. Brown, Col. and Mrs. Taylor and Major Newman. Among those present were General Miller, Dr. and Mrs. Jenney, Colonel Mimms, Misses Brown and the Misses Taylor, Major and Mrs. Conklin, Miss Leahy, Mrs. Winnipet Campbell. The officers on duty with the R.O.T.C. attending were Major and Mrs. Estes, Major Baylies, Shnyder, Carr, Lawrason, Flint and Graham, Captain McCullough, Capt. and Mrs. Jacobson, Captain Stewart, Lieutenants Hogan and Dye, and Chaplain Frazer.

Beck, U.S.A., and a son of Major Philip G. Wales, U.S.A., of Menlo Park, Calif.

Mrs. Edward H. Browne has given up her apartment at the Fielding, San Francisco, and has gone to Fort Leavenworth, to visit her daughter, wife of Major J. A. McAndrew, U.S.A., who is on duty at the School of the Line. She expects to be joined there by her son, Major Harrison C. Browne, in July, on leave from Camp Benning, Ga.

Chaplain Milton O. Beebe, U.S.A., and Mrs. Beebe, Walter Reed General Hospital, were the recipients of a graceful tribute in the form of a beautiful basket of flowers and a corsage bouquet for Mrs. Beebe, "from the nurses and friends of the post" on the occasion of their ninth wedding anniversary, Sunday, June 19. The gifts came as a surprise and were presented at the close of the evening service.

Major Gen. David C. Shanks, U.S.A., delivered the commencement address at Roanoke College, Salem, Va., June 15, from which college he was graduated in 1879. General Shanks's subject was: "The importance of morale in warfare," and included also some practical suggestions to the members of the graduating class. On the same occasion the college awarded to General Shanks the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

Appropriate observance of Memorial Day was held at Fort Dade, Fla., on May 30. Companies were formed and marched to the cemetery, Lieut. Col. R. M. Mitchell, C.A.C., in command. Colonel Mitchell's address was short but very inspiring, and the prayer and brief address by Chaplain Westcott, C.C., was impressive. America was sung and the usual salute fired. Taps were sounded, closing the services. The ladies of the Current Events Club decorated each grave with wreaths, sprays and crosses.

A number of officers of the Ordnance Department, U.S.A., on duty in Washington, gave a dinner in honor of Col. John H. Rice, Ord. Dept., on June 16 as a token of their esteem. The event took place on the day of the retirement of Colonel Rice from active service. The invited guests included Major Gen. C. C. Williams, Chief of Ordnance, and Brig. Gen. W. S. Peirce, Assistant Chief. Altogether there were more than fifty Ordnance officers present. Major C. M. Wesson, Ord. Dept., presided as toastmaster. General Williams delivered a brief address covering the valuable services and achievements rendered by Colonel Rice and his successes in various activities throughout his career in the Ordnance Department and expressed the hope that Colonel Rice would live in the minds of all present as an example and inspiration. General Peirce in his remarks spoke of the severe loss which the Ordnance Department sustained by the retirement of so able an officer as Colonel Rice, and stated that the older officers shared with the younger officers in the sincere admiration of Colonel Rice as an officer and a gentleman, and that in his retirement the Army was losing one of its great men. Col. L. M. Fuller, of the Ordnance Department, who is on the retired list, also made a brief speech, welcoming Colonel Rice to the ranks of the retired officers.

Cadet Carter Catlett, of West Point Military Academy, is visiting his home in Gloucester, Va.

A son, Archer Lynn Lerch, jr., was born to Capt. A. L. Lerch, 63d U.S. Inf., and Mrs. Lerch at Fort Ontario, N.Y., on June 21, 1921.

Brig. Gen. C. W. Kennedy, U.S.A., and Mrs. Kennedy, who have just returned from Panama, where they have been for the past two years, were luncheon guests of President and Mrs. Harding at the White House on June 15. Gen. and Mrs. Kennedy will spend the summer in New England.

Mrs. Robert T. Darrow, wife of Lieutenant Darrow, U.S.N., with her little daughter, Virginia, will leave Washington shortly to join Lieutenant Darrow at Crescent Beach, Conn., where they have leased a cottage for the summer months. Mrs. Darrow has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon A. Winter, at their home, 2937 Connecticut avenue.

John Kenneth Donald, the son of Capt. Douglas Donald, U.S.A., retired, and Mrs. Donald, was in the graduating class of the Peckskill Military Academy, Peckskill, N.Y., on June 8. He had the distinction of being valedictorian of his class, although he was its youngest member, just fifteen. He was also a captain in the cadet battalion. He will enter Columbia College in the fall, taking a pre-engineering course, preparatory to advanced work in Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His brother, Douglas, a freshman in Columbia, carried off similar honors in Peckskill Military Academy a year ago.

Mrs. W. L. Bingaman, of Pittsburgh, Pa., who is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Harrison Herman, at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., was honor guest at a luncheon which Mrs. Herman gave on June 8 at the Hotel Vermont in Burlington. The table was profusely decorated with daisies and buttercups, the color scheme of yellow being carried out in the novelty old-fashioned bouquets and hand-painted place-cards made by the hostess, which marked each cover. The luncheon was followed by a box party at the Majestic Theater. The guests included Mrs. Sirmeyer, Taylor, Amory, Heard, Miller, Mautsby, Baylies, Bertholet, Russell, Earnest, Walker, Parker, the Misses Hickox and Townsend.

THE ARMY MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION

The Army Mutual Aid Association has started a campaign for new membership and as a result of three months' effort more than 150 new members have been added, with applications still coming in. The association was organized in 1879, its purpose being to provide a moderate amount of life protection for the Regular Army officer's family at low cost while he lives, and to insure an infallible and immediate payment of the benefit when he dies. Until 1918 the association accomplished these purposes, with a growing membership and a steadily increasing reserve, having during thirty-nine years paid $52 benefits. It has no salaried officials; costs of operation are restricted to clerical services of one person and to necessary printing, stationery and postage. The reserve, which has now reached $600,000, is invested in securities legal for savings banks.

In 1918 the Government War Risk Insurance seemed to fulfil the needs for which the Army Mutual Aid was organized and the absorbing activities of the war prevented any effort to obtain new members. After the armistice some held that it would be wise to merge the association in the War Risk Bureau and this suggestion was followed to the point of seeking Congressional authority. Consideration of this course occupied much time, so that no effort was made to increase the membership. Finally it was determined that the necessary legislation would be difficult to obtain and that such a merger would surrender the important original purposes of the association, namely, the immediate payment of the benefit at the time of death. It was found that a great majority of the members preferred to see the association retain its independent status and continue the good work done in the past. The result was the determination to continue alone and in March of this year a campaign for new membership began, with such genuine success that the association desires the Service at large to know of it and to consider whether the association should not eventually include all officers who have families or dependents for whom they desire to provide. At corps area headquarters, at the Service schools and at nearly all troop stations officers have volunteered and been designated as active representatives of the Army Mutual Aid Association and will be glad to give full information on the subject.

RETURN OF ADMIRAL SIMS.

Rear Admiral William S. Sims, U.S.N., and Mrs. Sims and Lieut. Comdr. H. M. Lammers, U.S.N., the Admiral's aid, arrived at New York on July 22 on the steamer Olympic. The Admiral had the unique experience of landing under guard of 1,300 policemen, provided as a result of the publicity given to his London address. There had been threats of a hostile demonstration by Irish sympathizers and of a counter demonstration by enthusiastic supporters of the Admiral that also threatened to overwhelm him. As a result of what was said to be one of the most elaborate and efficient police guards ever devised by the New York department to protect a single individual there was no demonstration. Admiral Sims took automobile to the Pennsylvania station and left at once for Washington to report to the Secretary of the Navy. Admiral Sims was in the best spirits and was not at all disturbed by the elaborate preparations for his reception. He was met at the pier by Rear Admiral Harry McI. P. Huse and Lieut. Comdr. Francis E. Whiting, U.S.N.

Admiral Sims appeared at the Navy Department early on June 23 and went at once into the Secretary's office. The interview was brief and later the Admiral paid his respects to Admiral R. E. Coontz, Chief of Naval Operations. He was accompanied by his aid, Lieut. Comdr. Howard M. Lammers, U.S.N., and spent less than ten minutes in the Navy Department, appearing in the best of spirits and exchanging greetings with officers and acquaintances. Secretary Denby said: "Admiral Sims has denied the accuracy of the statements attributed to him, and stated he was quoted incorrectly. I gave him a written memorandum setting forth these statements and asked him to inform me in writing wherein he was misquoted and to tell me if he could what he did say in that speech. I asked him to give me an early report. My memorandum was an official communication to Admiral Sims in the form of an order." Admiral Sims, within two hours of the time of his talk with the Secretary, handed in his written report relative to the speech he made before the English Speaking Union in London. Secretary Denby then said he hoped to have a statement to make on the matter shortly.

The Bureau of Navigation, it is learned, for the last two weeks has been receiving daily an average of 300 missives of all kinds addressed to Admiral Sims, some of these being printed cards circulated by a Pennsylvania church federation which are coming from all parts of that state, commending the Admiral for his statements in the London speech.

RELIEF OF COL. FREDERICK S. FOLTZ.

Col. Frederick S. Foltz, 6th Cavalry, was on June 17 relieved from assignment to that regiment and from further assignment and duty at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and ordered to report by telegraph to the commanding general, 4th Corps Area, Fort McPherson, Ga., for assignment to duty. The order for his relief came direct from the Secretary of War, who acted on the report of a preliminary investigation of alleged mistreatment of Pvt. G. P. Rhodes, who it was charged was put in irons at the order of Colonel Foltz or some other officer of the 6th Cavalry. It is known that up to June 20 nothing on the record of Colonel Foltz indicated that charges had been preferred of the character indicated in current reports, that no court of inquiry had been ordered, or that a further investigation would be made.

It appears that activity in the matter was instigated by Representative Rosenbloom of West Virginia, who interested himself in Rhodes as a native of his state, and that an investigation had been requested. According to the story told by Rhodes he is a graduate of Culver Military Academy and got himself disliked as a private by ostentatious display of his military knowledge. He then went absent without leave for twenty-six days and was punished; again took leave without permission, and returned; then escaped from the guardhouse and again surrendered. Then, he says, he was put in irons which chafed his leg and necessitated his confinement in hospital for seventeen days. The irons were removed, he says, only upon his promise that he would not again attempt to escape.

Colonel Foltz, who has an excellent record of service, is a graduate of the U.S. Military Academy and is due for age retirement on Dec. 15, 1921. He served in the rank of brigadier general in the National Army overseas during the World War in command of the 182d Infantry Brigade, 91st Division. Among officers who have served under Colonel Foltz the general impression is that if his relief was due to the complaint of and representations in behalf of Private Rhodes it is more than likely that Colonel Foltz shouldered a blame which should rest elsewhere. Those who know him declare he is of the highest type of Army officer, uniformly courteous to and considerate of his juniors, and has never been known to be harsh or abusive to those serving under him. Because of the fact that Colonel Foltz's record is clear as concerns the alleged charges, it would appear that the preliminary investigation disclosed that the allegations were not sufficiently confirmed to encourage a further inquiry, and that in spite of this his relief was decided upon by the Secretary of War presumably as tending to satisfy the complaint in the soldier's behalf. If this is the fact it is a gross injustice to Colonel Foltz and an injury to Army discipline. If there was any abuse at Fort Oglethorpe for which he was responsible even if not directly concerned the way was open for charges preferred under military regulations and adjudication by a court-martial. Colonel Foltz, according to the Chattanooga Times, has taken the proper action in the matter in requesting through military channels that a court of inquiry investigate the imputations made against him resulting in his relief as commanding officer at Fort Oglethorpe. It was learned that Colonel Foltz's request was telegraphed to General Morrison at Fort McPherson following the Colonel's receipt of the special orders from the War Department.

Friends of Colonel Foltz among prominent citizens of Chattanooga and others at Fort Oglethorpe, have interested themselves in his case and desire to help the Colonel secure a vindication from the unjust position they consider he has been placed in by the War Department. The Chattanooga Times reports that commissioned and non-commissioned officers and also the medical officers who treated the sore leg of Private Rhodes, have contradicted his statement that the sore was caused by leg irons. The official order relieving Colonel Foltz from duty at Fort Oglethorpe is given under our Army head in this issue. It is reported that the mother of Private Rhodes is employed in the office of The A.G.O. of the Army as a clerk, and it is stated that it was through her that Congressman Rosenbloom interested himself in the case of her son.

ACADEMIC HONORS FOR THE SERVICES.

Rear Admiral William S. Sims, U.S.N., was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of laws by Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N.J., on June 21.

Rear Admiral Frederic R. Harris, C.E.C., and Commodore Albert W. Stahl, C.C., both U.S.N., received the degree of doctor of engineering at the commencement exercises of Stevens Institute on June 21. Admiral Harris and Commodore Stahl are both graduates of Stevens.

The honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred on Lieut. Col. Elbert E. Persons, Med. Corps, U.S.A., by Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio, at its commencement exercises.

Col. John T. Thompson, U.S.A., was the recipient of the degree of doctor of science at the commencement exercises of the Indiana State University on June 8 for his indispensable war services as director of arsenals.

ARMY NOTES.

Cadets Arrive at Camp Dix.

The First and Third Classes of cadets at the U.S. M.A., detailed for field service at Camp Dix, N.J., arrived there on June 23, after a march of eight days from West Point, in excellent shape. Lieut. Col. Robert M. Danforth was in command.

Army Polo Team Defeats Cubans.

The War Department Greens, the team holding the U.S. Army polo championship, defeated the Cuban army polo team at Washington, D.C., on June 22 by a score of 9 to 1. In the two preceding games of the tournament the Cuban team had won, defeating the War Department Reds on June 20 by a score of 5 to 3 and a team from Camp A. A. Humphreys on June 18 by a score of 6 to 3. It is hoped to make this international military polo tournament between the two countries an annual event.

General Holbrook Visits Fort Ethan Allen.

Major Gen. W. A. Holbrook, U.S.A., Chief of Cavalry, inspected the post of Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., June 17. There was a review of the command and the General highly complimented Colonel Sirmeyer, post commander, upon the condition and appearance of the post and command. During the afternoon there was a spirited polo game between the first and second post teams, in which the second team won by a score of 6 to 4. In the evening there was a reception and dance in honor of the General, held in the Auditorium. The 3d Cavalry colors, green and yellow, served as a color scheme and the auditorium was attractively decorated for the occasion. The General left on the night train for the South.

Coast Artillery Practice March.

Between 500 and 600 Coast Artillerymen of the Regular Army from Fort Monroe were in encampment at Langley Field, Hampton, Va., June 10, states the Langley Field Times. The troops, which were organized into a provisional regiment of two battalions, were under the command of Major O. L. Spiller. The day's activity was in the nature of a practice march under full combat transportation, including wagon train, field kitchens and armament. One battalion was organized as an anti-aircraft battalion, and was commanded by Lieut. G. W. Trichel, while the other battalion, which was commanded by Capt. Paul H. French, was organized as a fixed defense battalion. Practice in establishing both a semi-permanent camp with the larger tents and a temporary overnight camp of shelter tents was engaged in. The men expressed great appreciation for the co-operation given by Langley Field and were particularly loud in their praises of the water wagon furnished by the field, which saved many a trip by foot to the water supply.

Camp Upton to be Sold.

The Director of Sales announced on June 14 that Camp Upton, Long Island, N.Y., is to be offered for sale through sealed proposals, to be received until July 15, at the office of the Quartermaster General, Munitions Building, Washington, D.C. Included will be approximately 1,660 buildings of various kinds, together with fixtures. The buildings include barracks, officers' quarters, storehouses, stables, sheds, lavatories, hospital wards, infirmaries, and miscellaneous buildings.

Transportation Overseas of Retired Officers.

In regard to their priority in consideration for transportation overseas on Army transports, retired officers who, while on active duty status, are granted leave of absence with permission to go beyond the seas, will be considered under the same heading and in the same manner as officers on the active list of the Army who are granted similar leaves of absence. The Secretary of War has directed the Quartermaster General to notify the Transportation Service of this action.

Water Transportation Officers' Service.

The Quartermaster General has been informed by direction of the Secretary of War that general superintendents, assistant general superintendents and transport quartermaster of the Transportation Service of the Quartermaster Corps are not considered as being on duty with combatant troops.

Panama Mountain Artillery Discontinued.

The discontinuance of the separate battalion of Mountain Artillery in the Panama Canal Department has been ordered by the Secretary of War. From personnel available in the department there will be organized a battalion headquarters detachment and combat train; also two batteries of pack Artillery from Batteries A and B, 22d Field Artillery.

Cavalry Pack Animals Weight Fixed.

The recommendation of Major Gen. Willard A. Holbrook, Chief of Cavalry, that the total load, including pack saddle, to be placed on any pack animal carrying special arms, material or equipment pertaining either to a Cavalry unit or to a unit which is a component part of a Cavalry division shall not exceed 200 pounds, has been approved by the Secretary of War. This does not apply to pack trains nor is it to be used as authority for declaring obsolete existing equipment exceeding in weight that now authorized as standard. It will be possible to design new equipment when pending tests of new pack saddles are concluded and weights are known, but new pack equipment can be made up only as existing supplies are exhausted. It is expected that pack tests, in progress now for two years, will be finished this fall.

Baggage Restriction on Travel Orders.

On travel orders to officers of the Army involving temporary change of station, the Secretary of War has directed that baggage allowance of an officer will be limited to that which can be checked on his railway ticket. This order is effective on transportation prior to July 1.

Regulations for Increased Pay Rescinded.

In view of the decision of the Secretary of War, dated July 10, 1920, in which he disapproved changes in Army Regulations providing for increased pay for members of machine gun, automatic rifle and 37-mm. gun units reaching certain standards of proficiency, without further legislation, Secretary Weeks on June 11 directed that the necessary orders be issued rescinding the provisions of all existing regulations on the subject whereby increased pay is granted for qualifying in machine gun, automatic rifle and 37-mm. gun units until such time as specific legislation on this matter is passed by Congress.

Target Practice for Warrant Officers.

Warrant officers are in the same category as commissioned officers relative to small arms target practice, and they are authorized but not required to fire, neither are they entitled to extra pay for proficiency obtained in the use of the rifle, according to War Department orders. It is stated there is no provision whereby warrant officers as individuals may be sent as competitors in the National Matches, although they are eligible to compete in corps area or departmental matches. Warrant officers, except those attached to Infantry, Cavalry, Engineer or Coast Artillery units, will be selected to attend corps area or departmental competitions in the same manner as officers of the different staff corps. Warrant officers who have been attached to Infantry, Cavalry, Engineer or Coast Artillery units and are regularly serving with such units are eligible for selection as members of these teams provided that they do not have to be specially attached for the purpose of qualifying for membership on the team in question.

Q.M.C. ANNIVERSARY DINNERS.

In addition to the Q.M.C. anniversary celebration dinners on June 16 noted in our issue of June 18, we have received programs and menus of the following events participated in by officers and men of the corps:

Camp Furlong Celebration.

The Q.M.C. Detachment at Camp Furlong, N.M., gave a reception, dinner and dance on June 16 to celebrate the anniversary of the founding of their corps. The reception took place at five o'clock, the dinner and dance following. The menu, which with the program of the other events and the dance music was printed on a handsome folder in buff and gold, included a roster of the officers and enlisted men of the detachment which is commanded by Lieut. Col. S. H. Hopson, Q.M.C., and Capt. L. C. Worthington, Q.M. Sergt. W. W. Washington read the message to the corps from the Quartermaster General and Sergt. W. D. Smith delivered an address on "Achievements of the Q.M. Corps."

Fort Wood Has Dinner and Excursion.

In connection with the chain of celebrations of the 146th anniversary of the Quartermaster Corps of the U.S. Army, June 16, 1921, a very elaborate program was carried out at Fort Wood, N.Y. Harbor. Under the shadow of the Statue of Liberty the message of the Quartermaster General was read to the assembled detachment of the corps, after which, through the courtesy and co-operation of the 4th Service Company, Signal Corps, an excellent dinner was served at five o'clock. All the officers and N.C.O.'s of the post, with their respective families, assisted at this dinner, which was followed in the evening by a moonlight excursion up the Hudson on the steamer Squantum. This excursion was participated in by the entire command, with their guests, and dancing and music was enjoyed until about midnight, at which time the party returned to the island, with fondest hopes of celebrating many future birthdays of the Quartermaster Corps.

Fort Adams Personnel Dinner.

The members of the Q.M. Corps, U.S.A., on duty at the Coast Defenses of Narragansett Bay, Fort Adams, R.I., gathered with their wives and friends in Masonic Hall, Newport, R.I., June 16 to celebrate the 146th anniversary of the birth of the Q.M.C. Capt. A. L. Barber, together with committees of both the enlisted and civilian detachments arranged an excellent dinner which was thoroughly enjoyed by 130 diners. After the dinner Captain Barber, as toastmaster, called upon Col. G. F. Landers, C.A.C., commanding the coast defenses, who replied with a very delightful talk on the value of such an occasion, and gave a brief history of the Q.M.C. Members of the enlisted and civilian detachments also made appropriate remarks. As a close, Captain Barber read a message from the Quartermaster General of the Army published to the rank and file of the corps, to which all lent an attentive ear. Dancing was enjoyed from nine until twelve o'clock to music by an orchestra from the 7th Coast Artillery Band. The celebration was a grand success in every particular.

NEW YORK CHAPTER, M.O.W.W.

New York Chapter, Military Order of the World War, had the pleasure of listening at its June meeting, held in the Hotel Astor, to a very illuminating address on the subject of the "Preparation and Laying of the North Sea Mine Barrage," by Capt. R. B. Belknap, U.S.N., the officer in charge of the laying of the barrage. The lecture attracted great attention among the Navy officers in the neighborhood, as was evidenced by the attendance of Rear Admiral H. McL. P. Huse, Capt. D. Pratt Mannix, Capt. John D. Wainwright, Comdr. W. H. McGinn, Lieut. Comdr. F. E. M. Whitely, U.S.N., and Col. James T. Bootes, U.S.M.C. Brig. Gen. Grote Hutcheson, U.S.A., headed a large delegation from Governors Island. Capt. Maurice Jeffes, of the British army, was present and Lieut. William H. McGee, Jr., of the Canadian Royal Air Forces, who in presenting his application for membership in the chapter spoke briefly on the subject of German propaganda in this country. There will be no formal meetings until the fall, but the chapter plans one or two outings and informal gatherings.

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL'S YEAR BOOK.

With the appropriate title of The Doughboy, the Infantry School, Camp Benning, issues its first year book, the biggest work of its kind known to Army publications, which is quite befitting the largest arm of the Service. The prologue to the volume reads: "Of, by and for the Infantry, The Doughboy is the material result of a natural desire on the part of the officers attending and on duty at the Infantry School to perpetuate the experiences encountered, the impressions received, and the friendships there formed. For those of us growing or already grown gray in the Service it is hoped The Doughboy will carry us back for a space to near-forgotten scenes of campus and the plain and waft across the years a breath or two reminiscent of the golden haze of student days. For that larger element for which the year at Benning is in a sense our initiation in the arena of arms The Doughboy stands as the first milestone of our journey toward the heights, a memento of nuda lang syne. For those officers to whom the Infantry course is still a prospect in future it is hoped The Doughboy will help to point and make smooth the way, at the same time establishing a record of achievement not to be lessened by those who follow us." The text includes a dedication to the Infantry, a sketch of Major Gen. C. S. Farnsworth, Chief of Infantry, with his portrait and an article by him on "The Function of Infantry"; an account of the Infantry School; of its commandant, Brig. Gen. Walter H. Gordon, and of the Infantry Board. There are portrait groups and rosters of the various staffs and departments with descriptions of their work; of the field officers and the several classes, each member's photograph being reproduced with a sketch, official and humorous, of his career. A description of the camp follows with the various staffs that carry on its work; and other sections are devoted to athletics, the social pleasures of the officers and their families, and the schools for the children of the post. There is a humorous section; and the last part of the handsome volume is devoted to The Doughboy staff and scenes in and around Columbus, Ga. This annual will be a pleasant souvenir for every officer who has known the life at the Infantry School either as a teacher or a student. It is announced that a limited number of copies remain unsold and they may be ordered by addressing "The Doughboy," Camp Benning, Ga.

ARMY RIFLE TEAM TRYOUTS.

The preliminary tryouts for the Infantry rifle team to shoot in the National Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, in September, were finished at Camp Benning June 17. Possibly thirty men attaining the highest scores will be selected, out of the 659 officers and enlisted men who engaged in the tryouts, to compose the team, until further tryouts. Sergt. Stanley Smith, 52d Inf., made the best showing, an aggregate of 1,988 points. Capt. L. S. Spooner, 47th Inf., followed closely with a total of 1,977. Capt. Joseph Tupper, 39th Inf., was next with 1,973.5, and Captain Brown, Infantry School, was fourth, making 1,969.5. The next highest in their order were Captain Hall, 59th Inf., 1,967; Captain Kneubel, Infantry School, 1,966; Sergeant Iorger, 37th Inf., 1,957.5; Captain Lindroth, 52d Inf., 1,954.0; Sergeant Platt, 7th Inf., 1,935.5; Sergt. G. H. Smith, 38th Inf., 1,917; Lieutenant Andino, 18th Inf., 1,911; Captain Stephens, 22d Inf., 1,910; Captain Richmond, 22d Inf., 1,901; Lieutenant Hinds, 52d Inf., 1,899. Capt. Joseph Tupper, 39th Inf., Elmer Lindroth, 52d Inf., Roy Hall, 59th Inf., and L. S. Spooner, 47th Inf., were detailed to the Infantry School for practice and participated in the tryouts; all made records sufficiently high to include them in the first eight highest marks. Captain Tupper led last year's Infantry tryouts, Captains Lindroth and Spooner won last year's Olympic team, and Captain Hall, when a recruit in 1905, won the Philippine Department competition. He subsequently left the Service, but returned during the World War. The final tryouts for the Infantry team will be held at Fort Niagara, N.Y. Team candidates are to arrive there not later than July 5, and will be there until September.

A.F. IN G. CONTESTANTS IN INTER-ALLIED GAMES.

Of the 500 contestants entered in the Inter-Allied Olympiad which opened at Mayence, Germany, on June 8 one hundred were from the American Forces in Germany. The remaining 300 represented the British, French and Belgian armies of occupation. In addition to track and field events the program included soccer, basketball, tennis and fencing matches, says an Associated Press message from Mayence. On June 9 the French won the 5,000-meter run, with the British second, Belgians third and Americans fourth. The French defeated the Americans in the tug of war. Americans qualified in all the finals in the dashes and hurdles, which were run on June 10, and tied with the French for first place in the standing high jump. In the finals on June 11 French athletes made the best showing, scoring 84 points. The U.S. Army representatives scored 75, the British 28 and the Belgians 21. The greatest number of points scored by any one individual, however, went to Pvt. Adam Paul, U.S. Army. He won first place in the running broad jump, second in the low and high hurdles, third in the 100-meter dash, and was a member of the relay and basketball teams. Private Paul was presented with a Coq du Gaulois donated by Minister of War Barthou. The games were witnessed by a great crowd, which included all of the Allied high commanders. Lieut. William McKay Dunn, 15th U.S. Field Art., won the tennis singles, defeating Major Wright of Great Britain, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5. Majors Hugonin and Hunter of the British forces defeated Lieutenant Dunn and Major William A. McCain, Q.M. Corps, U.S.A., in the tennis doubles, 6-4, 6-0, 6-3. The Americans defeated the British in soccer football by a score of 1 to 0.

INFANTRY SCHOOL GRADUATION.

The graduation exercises of the Infantry School will take place at Camp Benning, Ga., on June 30. Approximately 587 student officers who have attended the school since Nov. 1, 1920, will receive their diplomas. Addresses will be delivered by Major Gen. C. S. Farnsworth, Chief of Infantry; Brig. Gen. W. H. Gordon, commandant of the school, and Col. Paul B. Malone, assistant commandant. It is expected also that Assistant Secretary of War Wainwright, Major Gen. James G. Harbord and Brig. Gen. Amos A. Fries will be able to be present. The commencement exercises begin on June 28, when the Officers' Club will be host at a dance for the graduating classes and Major Gen. and Mrs. Farnsworth. Several demonstrations of modern warfare are to be given during the closing days, including day and night attacks. Governors and other station and national officials have been invited to attend the exercises.

RETIREMENT OF ARMY WARRANT OFFICERS.

The Adjutant General of the Army has been authorized to receive applications for the retirement of warrant officers on account of length of service, to check the records of service and to submit applications to the Chief of Staff for approval by the Secretary of War. The examination of records will embrace all general and special reports involving physical or other disability of warrant officers upon which recommendation will be secured from the Surgeon General. Warrant officers may be placed under medical observation or treatment and may be ordered before retiring boards, and The Adjutant General will review the proceedings of such boards and submit his views through the Chief of Staff for approval of the Secretary of War.

NEW SCHEDULE OF ARMY TRANSPORTS.

Effective July 1 the schedule of sailings of U.S. Army transports on the Atlantic will be changed from every month to every six weeks. The transport which ordinarily would have sailed from New York for Antwerp on July 5 will sail July 14, and the one for hte Canal Zone and Porto Rico will sail July 21. The next sailings will be six weeks after those dates. The July sailings will be from Hoboken, but succeeding departures may possibly take place from Pier 2, Army Supply Base, South Brooklyn.

ARMY PROMOTIONS AT A STANDSTILL.

The flow of promotion in the Army has been brought to a complete standstill for the present by the failure of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs to confirm Major Robert G. Peck, Inf., U.S.A., in the grade of lieutenant colonel, as previously noted in our columns. The War Department is still adhering strictly to the letter of the law and has assumed a waiting attitude toward the Senate, looking to action which will again start the flow of promotion. It is learned that Major Peck, who is on duty as assistant inspector at headquarters of 6th Corps Area, has not made any move in his own behalf and has not communicated with the War Department, with members of Congress, or so far as known with his friends, relative to the stand taken by the Senate committee on the charges of the 35th Division Association and individual members of this division. The letter of Senator Capper to the President, dated June 9, had not been accorded a reply up to June 23, when it was learned that the reply was in preparation and would go into the record of the officer and also the law exhaustively. It develops that the copy of the resolutions passed by the 35th Division Association on Sept. 26, 1920, was transmitted to Senator Capper on Dec. 7, 1920, "with the urgent request that your paramount influence be exerted to carry out the provisions of the document," by Brig. Gen. Charles I. Martin, adjutant general of Kansas and a candidate for appointment as Chief of the Militia Bureau. General Martin was president of the division association. Objection in his behalf by Senator Capper is holding up the confirmation of Brig. Gen. George C. Rickards, of Pennsylvania, for Chief of Militia Bureau. General Martin is also president of the Adjutants Gen'l Association.

WAR DEPARTMENT GENERAL STAFF MAY BE CHANGED.

Although Gen. John J. Pershing has given no indication of the policies he may have in view on taking the office of Chief of Staff on July 1, and has made no statements on the subject of General Staff organization since his hearing before the Joint Senate and House Committees on Military Affairs in November, 1919, there is an expectation in Army circles in Washington that General Pershing will inaugurate some modifications in the organization of the War Department General Staff. This is based upon the fact the General Staff which operated in France was different from the reorganized War Department General Staff as directed under G.O. No. 48, W.D., 1920, as we illustrated at length in our issue of April 30, page 957. The A.E.F. General Staff justified itself by its accomplishments in war time. It was organized by General Pershing, and having worked out an efficient war staff organization, it would be only natural he should retain the opinion that its pattern is better than that of the War Department General Staff. It seems reasonable, therefore, to anticipate he will amend G.O. No. 48 to bring about the simplification of the organization and to pattern it after the Chaumont General Staff, early in his occupation of the office of Chief of Staff. With General Pershing holding the two offices of Chief of Staff and General of the Army the War Council will be reduced actually to three members instead of the four as provided in Sec. 5b, Army Reorganization act of June 4, 1920. It is thought that the executive assistant to the Chief of Staff may be invited to confer with the War Council when policies affecting both the military and munitions problems are under consideration in the Council.

CONGRESS REDUCES THE ARMY AND NAVY.

Within six months of the time the general attack opened in Congress for a reduction of the enlisted strength of the Army, and for the weakening of our Navy by reduction both in personnel and in the building program results have been achieved by the Congressional anti-military forces, posing as economists. This double attack on the Army and Navy opened on Dec. 14, 1920, with a proposal in the House to reduce the enlisted strength of the Army to 175,000 men, and in the Senate for a building reduction program for the Navy which inevitably meant a reduction in both its commissioned and enlisted personnel. Now, six months later, we are faced with an agreement of the Senate and House conferees whereby the enlisted strength of the Army is to be reduced to 150,000 men by Oct. 1 next; and an agreement by the Naval Appropriation bill conferees for an appropriation for the pay of the Navy for the fiscal year 1922 that will provide for an enlisted strength of 106,000 men.

This action of Congress nullifies in large part the military lessons learned in the World War that were the basis of the Army Reorganization act of June 4, 1920. The enlisted strength of the Army will be reduced from the 280,000 men provided for in that act to 150,000 men. Senator Wadsworth said of the consequent necessity of discharging 50,000 men from the Service before Oct. 1 that it is a treatment of the individual soldier who has responded to the call of his country "without parallel in the history of the Army, surpassing in cruelty anything ever proposed." Yet that is only one phase. The question of vital importance to our national defense is this: How is the Regular Army to carry out its functions as prescribed by the War Department with a personnel reduced to fifty-four per cent. of its strength as provided in the Reorganization act? Approximately, under the enlisted strength fixed by this agreement of the conferees, the Corps of Engineers will have 6,000 men; the Ordnance Department 2,225; the Chemical Warfare Service 600; the Signal Corps 2,500; the Air Service 8,000 men, including flying cadets; the Infantry 55,000; the Cavalry 10,000; the Field Artillery 18,500; and the Coast Artillery Corps 15,000. With the nation's commitments in our island possessions, the Canal Zone, and the A.E. in G. it must be plain to anyone, other than a member of Congress obsessed with economy, that the number of troops left in the continental United States will be the veriest skeleton Army for such a country as our own.

One bright spot left in this deplorable situation is that the strength of the commissioned personnel of the Army has been left untouched. But with the Navy commissioned personnel the case is very different. With the reduction in appropriations which will provide for an enlisted strength of the Navy to 106,000 men instead of the present strength of 143,000 there may be expected eventually to follow a reduction of the commissioned personnel, since in the Navy the proportion of officers to men is fixed on a percentage basis, by the act of Aug. 29, 1916. With an enlisted strength of only 106,000 men in the Navy the commissioned personnel would have to be reduced by approximately 1,500 officers.

ARMY MEDICAL PERSONNEL.

Based upon an authorized enlisted strength of 175,000 in the Regular Army, and six and one-half officers for each thousand troops as stipulated by law, the Medical Corps now has an excess of thirty-eight officers. This excess will increase to more than 200 when the Army is reduced to 150,000 under the Army bill. It is considered in the Medical Corps that nothing is contained in the law which will make it incumbent upon the Medical Department to reduce its officer personnel proportionately, although the reduction of enlisted personnel will have the effect of not allowing any additional appointments. Despite the technical excess, Medical officers state there is great need for more officers because the Medical Department is still engaged in the care of war casualty cases and War Risk patients, and besides its personnel is widely dispersed throughout the country and on foreign service due to the scattered distribution of the Army. In fact, the whole organization is distributed on a basis of an Army of 280,000 troops, it is stated, and that there were just a short time ago as many as sixty military posts and stations in the 8th Corps Area alone requiring Medical officers. So long as troops are scattered as they are, there will be a shortage of Medical personnel, for the need must be determined more by the number of stations than by the actual number of enlisted men. Medical administrative officers realize it was the purpose of Congress to provide for a comparatively liberal number of officers in the Regular Army so that they could be utilized in training, but in the case of Medical officers they are so engrossed in the actual military duties it is pointed out no comprehensive training program can be planned and carried out. Civilian camps are now being conducted and will last until as late as September. Many of them will be without Regular Army Medical officers to train the civilian doctors in military duties, but under the circumstances the situation cannot be helped. The fact that no more applications can be considered for commission in the Medical Corps will retard and perhaps almost stop the practice which has been built up by the Surgeon General, with the co-operation of the leading educators throughout the country, of receiving in the general military hospitals promising male graduates of medical institutions looking to commissioning them in the Army. This arrangement has proved very successful, and it is stated the Government receives more from the student because of his services while in the hospitals under instruction than it pays him in money. The scheme was beginning to be considered as the normal method of recruiting the Medical Corps of the Army. Added to these handicaps of the Medical Department is the fact that it will be necessary to discharge eighty-nine Medical officers who have been called into active duty from the Officers' Reserve Corps. The time of their active service expires June 30, and it will be necessary to let them go. This will affect forty-seven Medical officers, twenty-nine Dental and thirteen Veterinary officers.

THE ARMY'S UNIFORM.

Army Granted Civilian Dress Off Duty.

Civilian dress when off duty has been granted to the Army personnel by Secretary of War Weeks, who late on June 23 sent the following memorandum to The Adjutant General:

"I direct that the following govern in respect to the wearing of civilian dress: The prescribed uniform will be worn during duty hours by all members of the Army who are required to wear a uniform and at all times when on a military post or reservation when stationed thereat, except when going or returning thereto or when engaged in athletic games or sports. Except as prescribed above, the wearing of civilian dress is optional. This authority will not apply to the American Forces in Germany, nor to the Philippine Department, Panama, Hawaii or Porto Rico. It will be confined to the continental limits of the United States, including Alaska. All orders or parts of orders in conflict with the foregoing are hereby rescinded."

Fit and Quality of the Uniform.

Those officers on duty in the War Department who are charged with matters relating to the uniform and equipment, and officers of the Quartermaster General's Office are included in this category, quite naturally are sensitive to criticism, particularly when it sparkles with wit, as instanced in the letter signed by Brig. Gen. Johnson Hagood in our issue of June 11, page 1112. In response to the good-natured prodding of the War Department for seemingly "putting the screws down on the ambitious dressers of the Army," it is pointed out that as early as April 29, 1920, Circular No. 161, of that date authorized considerable latitude in the specifications for service coat for both officers and enlisted men, pending revision of Special Regulations Nos. 41 and 42, W.D., 1917. The circular, which was published in our issue of May 1, 1920, also stated that "officers and enlisted men are authorized to wear service coats of old pattern until present supply has been worn out." As this was issued little more than a year ago, and old pattern coats are authorized until the worse for wear, it is pointed out that necessarily there would be some disparity existing, that the "ambitious dressers" have doubtless provided themselves with the new coat which recognizes a waist-line, and that some have assumed that they could trespass upon the latitude allowed in these specifications, for which the War Department is not responsible, but the officer himself.

For such trespass by the "ambitious dressers" among the enlisted personnel, commanding officers are responsible, for Circular 57, W.D., Feb. 1, 1920, provided that "all service coats . . . will be fitted to the soldier under the personal supervision of an officer." Par 2 of Circular 161 states that enlisted men may be permitted to wear articles of the uniform not furnished by the Quartermaster Corps, provided that all such articles conform in quality, design and color to official pattern or specifications. Enlisted men, therefore, are not discouraged from having uniforms custom made. It is provided, however, in Circular No. 72, W.D., March 16, 1921, that "enlisted men will not be permitted to wear an article of uniform of a type different from that which is issued to the organization to which they belong." This should be carried out if for no other purpose than to attain the uniformity and good appearance which is desirable at an Army post, camp or station as much as at West Point. In connection with the cotton olive drab, it is stated that the variegated appearance of these uniforms is due very generally to inefficient laundering; Circular No. 150, W.D., April 22, 1920, gives laundry directions which should be followed. For ill-fitting uniforms on enlisted men there has been no excuse for more than a year, it is declared at the office of the Quartermaster General, for tailoring shops are maintained at posts, camps and stations and orders have been issued urging commanding officers to see that alterations are made where a good fitting is impossible from the issue clothing. At isolated posts, contracts are made with local tailors by the Quartermaster Corps for similar service for the enlisted personnel.

The War Department point of view is that everything reasonable has been done and is being done to attain good appearance and uniformity in the uniforms of the officers and enlisted men, that there has not been a disposition to set up irksome restrictions, that co-operation from commanding officers has ever been sought, and that in issue clothing cognizance of the stocks on hand since war-time and the attitude of Congress opposing additional expenditure, even for the new chevrons for the non-commissioned officers, has to be taken into consideration. Progress has been made in the adoption of a new system of manufacture of issue clothing, which has tended to revolutionize the cutting of ready-made clothing, and when this new system has been put wholly into use, which will be when existing stocks on hand have decreased to the extent that new contracts can be awarded, it is expected that there will be little to complain of by the enlisted man or his commanding officer as regards the fitting quality of the uniform.

McKELLAR AMENDMENT HEARINGS.

Hearings will open on July 15 on the McKellar amendment designed to change the law as to the arrangement of the Army promotion list in respect to captains and lieutenants. In making this announcement, Chairman Wadsworth, of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, said that any other suggestions or proposals relating to rearrangement of the promotion list of the Army as now provided would be received and considered. This movement was proposed by certain captains and lieutenants who came into the Regular Army from the emergency force, and the amendment would arrange the promotion list so that these captains and lieutenants would be graded among themselves according to length of commissioned service. In the Army Air Service a study of the promotion list has been under way for some months and it has arrived at the point where the program is about ready to be submitted, with a view to gaining files for the officers who believe they are entitled to advancement on the single list. At the same time it is learned that an active lobby is at work among members of Congress emphasizing arguments that the emergency officers did not receive all they were entitled to, and back of this is a tentative organization which is supplying the funds for its activities. In the War Department it is reported that resignations among juniors on the promotion list are showing a tendency toward increase, with those resigning stating in general that they cannot see a future in the Service. It is apparent that the unrest among the younger element of the commissioned personnel of the Army is quite general, and the Congressional proposal to cut down the enlisted strength to 150,000 by October, meaning the throwing out of the Army of some 70,000 men in the next three months, will not serve to stabilize the situation. Agitation of the promotion question, moreover, is not likely to gain much sympathy from Congress and indications are that continued onslaught upon the promotion law will only serve to keep the matter of the commissioned strength fresh in the minds of the "little" Army group in Congress. That was shown in the House on June 20 when Mr. Garrett, expressing his approval of the reduction of the enlisted strength of the Army to 150,000, said: "I have an idea that the sentiment of this country is going to insist, unless some emergency arises, upon its being reduced still further next year, and kept at a pretty low number. And I have the impression that we are top-heavy with officers now, and that is one of the troubles." Although the Committees on Military Affairs are a unit for maintaining the authorized strength of commissioned personnel, it is no earnest that their advice will be endorsed in House and Senate, so it would not be at all surprising if, having won in cutting the enlisted strength, a concerted effort is made to reduce the number of officers. And agitation in behalf of preferential advancement in grades will not aid in resisting such a purpose. Since the Military Committees are believed to be opposed to changing the law relative to the formation of the single promotion list, it is highly probable that action on any amendment is unlikely at this session.

In connection with the prevailing dissatisfaction, the young officers who represent this group should remember that seldom in the history of the Army has promotion been so rapid as now, nor has there ever been so steady a flow upward even when promotion was by arms and branches. It might serve for reflection that prior to the Spanish-American War officers of the Regular Army spent from twenty-five to thirty-one years in the grades of first and second lieutenant. The increase of 1898 added slightly to rapidity of promotion and increased speed was again in evidence up to 1907, due to an increase in commissioned strength when the Artillery arm was separated into two branches, the Field and the Coast Artillery. The act of 1911 authorizing a Detached Officers' List, which added 200 officers to the line, aided promotion in the line. But at no time was promotion so rapid as to advance a second lieutenant to a captaincy within five years, whereas promotion under the existing law has served to do that after less than two years' service. Ten years ago a compilation was made which showed that it required twenty-seven years' service for an officer to advance to the grade of colonel. The average was nearly twenty years to a majority after graduation from the U.S. Military Academy. Up to the passage of the National Defense act in 1916 the average age of majors in the Regular Army ranged from forty to forty-five years. At the present time we have numerous majors in the Army who are not more than thirty years old; the present situation with reference to quick promotion, and particularly of those in the junior grades, has few parallels in the past, and it would seem that this fact should be well considered by all who have entered the Army with the purpose of making the Service a career.

ASSIGNMENT OF RESERVE CORPS OFFICERS.

Administrative control and assignment of Reserve officers are the subjects of a circular issued by the War Department under date of June 15 in which it is stated that for purposes of administrative control each Reserve officer is under the jurisdiction of the commander of the department or corps area in which his permanent residence is located. For purposes of training, assignment, or both the Reserve officers—with certain exceptions—are also under the same jurisdiction. For purposes of assignment Reserve officers are divided into three groups. The first of these is the General Assignment Group, officers in which are selected by the War Department for assignment to special duties and activities not properly included in the jurisdiction of chiefs of branches of the Army or other high commanders who function in time of peace. The second is the Branch Assignment Group, officers for which will be selected by the chiefs of branches for assignment to special duties or activities, not reserved for the G.A. Group, which in time of peace are excluded from the jurisdiction of department or corps area or other high commanders who function in time of peace. Third is the Territorial Assignment Group which will include all Reserve officers not included in the first two groups and are for assignment by department or corps area commanders to any organizations or activities within his territory not exempted from his control by specific orders of the War Department. All general officers of the O.R.C. will be placed in the G.A. Group. In view of their dual status, Reserve officers who are also members of the Regular Army or National Guard will be disposed of as follows: Officers, warrant officers and enlisted men of the National Guard will be put in the T.A. Group. Warrant officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army stationed in the continental limits of the United States and those serving with the A.F. in G. will be included in the G.A. Group or the B.A. Group. Warrant officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army stationed outside the continental limits of the United States, excepting those serving with the A.F. in G., will be included in the T.A. Group. General Staff eligibles selected for duty with the War Department, General Headquarters, or Army General Staff will be included in the G.A. Group. All others will be included in the T.A. Group and will in general be assigned to General Staff duties.

ADMINISTRATION OF NAVY YARDS.

G.O. No. 53, U.S. Navy Dept., 1921, which was made public on June 17, standardizes the organization and administration of navy yards and naval stations, and eliminates the conflict of authority in the industrial management system now used in most of the yards. The commandant of yard or station will have absolute authority and paramount responsibility and under him there will be a captain of the yard to administer military activities and a manager for industrial matters. Secretary Denby stated that an officer would shortly report to him as Aid for Navy Yards, and that matters referring to the yards will be handled in the Assistant Secretary's office by this officer. The Secretary said it was desired to improve navy yard methods, to avoid waste, and to make productive labor for the present and prospective needs of the fleet a maximum. To this end all bureaus and officers are to co-operate fully with the Aid for Navy Yards, lending such assistance by officers and civilian personnel as may be needed by him. The general order states that navy yards and stations exist for the service of the fleet; gives the duties of the commandant under whom is the administration of the yard or station; and states that "the internal organization of any navy yard shall be based upon the service that yard is expected to render to the fleet in time of war." It continues: "The principal aids to the commandant are the captain of the yard, whose duties are set forth in Navy Regulations, and the manager, who shall be an officer of experience and demonstrated capacity in the direction of industrial activities. The commandant shall place the industrial activities of the yard, including the labor force, all facilities for productive shops and offices, the supervision of personnel and facilities of the industrial public works and accounting department in the hands of an experienced officer who shall be called the manager. Unless some officer is specifically detailed for duty as manager by orders of the Navy Department, the commandant shall select one from his subordinates and assign him to this duty."

EXAMINATION OF LIEUTENANT COMMANDERS.

The examination of the permanent lieutenant commanders of the Navy, whose promotion from temporary status has just been announced, will be held after Aug. 1. All examinations hereafter will be held before supervisory boards in the naval districts, and the reports from these boards will be passed upon by statutory boards sitting either at Washington or at the Mare Island Navy Yard. The delay in these examinations is due to the fact that the boards are still at work on the papers of 2,000 temporary and Reserve officers who took the recent examination for transfer to the permanent Navy.

AGREEMENT ON ARMY APPROPRIATIONS.

Will Reduce Army to 150,000 by October.

The Army Appropriation bill (H.R. 5010) was completed on June 22 by the action of the Senate in accepting the final conference report. Under the provisions of the bill as it now goes to the President the enlisted strength of the Army must be reduced to 150,000 by October next. In order to do this, Senator Wadsworth explains, the Secretary of War must arbitrarily dismiss from the Army before Oct. 1 next at least 50,000 enlisted men. About 20,000 others would be released through expiration of enlistments and for other normal causes, making the total reduction 70,000 men. The arbitrary dismissal of soldiers before expiration of enlistment, Senator Wadsworth said, meant that the Government was directed to break its contracts with these soldiers. He said the action ordered by Congress was as "cruel" an act as Congress had ever been guilty of.

The amount carried by the bill is in round numbers $328,000,000. The Air Service receives $19,200,000. Among the provisions in the bill as agreed to are:

Authority to sell Army surplus foodstuffs to foreign governments with which we are at peace.

Limiting expenditures from this bill for pay of Officers' Reserve Corps to fifteen days' duty, except in W.D. General Staff details or under instruction at Service schools, as instructors at camps, details with tactical Air Service units, or three Reserve officers in J.A.G. Department, one in Medical Corps and additional officers and nurses, M.R.C. on B.W.R.I. hospital duty.

All enlisted men under eighteen may be discharged on application of parents or guardians, with transportation home paid by the War Department.

The Secretary of War is directed under such reasonable regulations as he may prescribe to grant applications for discharge of enlisted men serving in the continental United States without regard to provisions of existing law respecting discharges until the number in the Army has been reduced to 150,000 enlisted men, not including the Philippine Scouts. The provisions of this paragraph are to be carried into effect by the first of October.

The provisions of Sec. 27 of the Army Reorganization act, approved June 4, 1920, providing an enlistment allowance, are repealed.

The Secretary of War may sell or transfer to the Department of Agriculture for road work motor trucks and passenger carrying automobiles.

Authority is granted to pay certain transportation expenses of the civil personnel in Engineer Corps, Ordnance Department and Chemical Warfare Service from appropriations for the work on which incurred.

Amount appropriated for vocational training is $1,200,000; for ride range for civilian instruction, $100,000.

Fifty student officers may be sent to civil technical institutions in addition to the two per cent. commissioned officers authorized in Sec. 127a. Army Reorganization act.

In only a few instances were Senate increases in amounts appropriated by the House agreed to, and then only in compromised figures.

The pay of cadets at the Military Academy for the fiscal year 1922 is fixed at $780 a year and one ration per day, or commutation at $1.08 per ration. Hereafter each new cadet shall, upon admission to the Military Academy, be credited with the sum of $250 to cover the cost of his initial clothing and equipment issue, to be deducted subsequently from his pay.

NAVY BILL CONFEREES IN AGREEMENT.

The Senate and House conferees came to an agreement on the Naval Appropriation bill for the fiscal year 1922 on June 23, the House members having their way to a very marked extent. The basis of agreement for the total appropriation was $413,467,039, which is an increase of $17,169,790 over the original House appropriation. The pay of the Navy provides for an enlisted strength of 106,000 men. The Borah amendment providing for a conference with Great Britain and Japan on the reduction of naval armament is retained in the bill with the understanding that it is to go back to the House for a separate vote. It was stated on June 20 that in response to the challenge of Chairman Kelley of the House Committee on Naval Affairs to the Navy Department to show where it would place 120,000 men, the number asked for by Secretary Denby and the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, the Navy Department presented tables that showed assignment of 110,000 men. In these tables were included an unallotted reserve of about 7,000 men, nearly 4,000 on 137 small patrol boats which Mr. Kelley claimed have no naval value, and between 2,000 and 3,000 more, he said, on old battleships which at present are being used for training midshipmen.

Agreement on the principal Senate amendments was reached by the conferees as follows:

Pay of the Marine Corps provides for an enlisted strength of 21,000 men.

One airplane carrier is provided for, the initial appropriation being $3,000,000.

For naval aviation the total appropriation recommended is $13,413,431.

The provision establishing a Bureau of Aeronautics in the Navy Department is retained.

Naval base and station provisions came to the following actions: Authority was refused the Secretary of the Navy to accept a site at Los Angeles for a naval submarine base. Appropriation for completion of New London submarine base was struck out together with that for the San Pedro base as was that toward the development of a submarine and destroyer base at Guam. The appropriation for the enlargement of the naval hospital at San Diego, Calif., was fixed at $500,000. For the development of the Sand Point, Washington, naval air station an appropriation of $300,000 was recommended in place of the $800,000 proposed by the Senate.

The House provision for new construction was agreed to. It appropriates $90,000,000, but provides "that no part of this appropriation can be expended except on vessels now being constructed."

HEARING ON COAST GUARD PERSONNEL.

Commodore Commandant W. E. Reynolds, U.S.C.G.; Comdr. H. E. Hamlet, Lieut. Comdr. F. C. Billard and S. S. Yeardle, U.S.C.G., and Mr. O. M. Maxam, chief of Division of Operations, appeared before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce on June 21 in behalf of the bill (H.R. 7211) introduced by Chairman Winslow of the committee on June 17. The measure would distribute the commissioned line and engineer officers of the Coast Guard in the same proportions as provided by law for the distribution in grades of the commissioned line officers of the Navy. The committee appeared to be favorably disposed toward the measure.

THE SIXTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

FIRST SESSION.

Representative Haugen on June 16 introduced a bill (H.R. 7195) authorizing the President "to advance to the grade of major general upon the retired list a colonel, U.S. Army, retired, who during the World War served as Chief of the Air Service, A.E.F., who thereafter was detailed in charge of the Division of Military Aeronautics, Aviation Section, Sig. Corps, U.S. Army, and who served in the grade of major general as Director of Military Aeronautics, U.S. Army, and member of the Aircraft Board." This can mean no other than Col. William L. Kenly, U.S.A., who was retired on Oct. 31, 1919.

Bills Objected to but Not Lost.

Both the Military Academy bill (S. 1358), which provides for maintaining the Corps of Cadets at West Point at its maximum authorized strength, and the bill which provides for the retention of Camp Eustis were objected to when they came up in the House on June 20, which means an indefinite delay to their reconsideration. Chairman Kahn, of the House Committee on Military Affairs, is optimistic, however, as House Leader Mondell has assured him that within the near future a whole day, if necessary, will be given over to the consideration of military bills. Mr. Kahn thinks that these vital bills can then be taken up and given consideration by the House. There was some discussion when the bill providing for the retention of Camp Eustis was up on June 20 concerning the time limit, June 30, in which Camp Eustis could legally be retained, the appropriation bill stipulating that it shall be sold. It is not considered that the expiration of this limit will make it incumbent upon the Secretary of War to negotiate bids at once for the disposal of the camp, and that there will be plenty of time for consideration by Congress concerning its retention.

Several Bills to be Reported Favorably.

The House Committee on Military Affairs met in executive session on June 21 and Representative Parker of New Jersey was appointed by Chairman Kahn to report favorably to the House Senate bill 1574, authorizing the Secretary of War to exchange, with foreign nations desiring the same, samples of arms and equipment in use by the Army of the United States. The bill does not mean that such loan is required of the Secretary of War, and it specifically provides that the courtesy shall not be extended to a nation which does not reciprocate.

Mr. Miller of Washington is to report favorably Senate bill 1360 authorizing the award of the Distinguished Service Cross or Distinguished Service Medal provided for in the act of July 9, 1918, to Army officers nominated for brevet for gallantry during the War with Spain, Philippine Insurrection or China Relief Expedition.

Investigation of Marine Flyer's Discharge.

The resolution (S. Res. 70) introduced by Senator Sheppard of Texas on May 7 authorizing and directing the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs "to investigate the facts leading to the court-martial, as well as the court-martial proceedings," and all other findings in the case of former Capt. Edmund G. Chamberlain, U.S. Marine Corps, and report to Congress," was favorably reported by the committee on June 21, after Senator Sheppard made a long statement in relation to the case. Captain Chamberlain, it will be recalled, after his dismissal from the Service was recommended to the President, was held under nominal arrest and confined to the District of Columbia for nearly two years before former President Wilson finally approved the findings and sentence. He was a Marine Corps flyer overseas and was on the point of being decorated by Great Britain for heroism when charges were made that his exploits were inventions. On these charges he was tried and found guilty.

Senate Committee Reports Veteran Bonus Bill.

The so-called "five-way" veterans' bonus bill was favorably reported by the Senate Finance Committee on June 20. There was no opposition to the bill in the committee, but several members reserved the right to offer amendments, later. Provisions for adjusting compensation of former Service men include the cash bonus, or "adjusted Service pay"; deferred payments under "service certificates"; vocational training aid, farm and home aid and land settlement aid. The bill contains no provisions for meeting the expense it involves. When the bill came up for discussion in the Senate on June 23 Senator Borah denounced the measure as a "pretext" for adding from $1,500,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 to the financial burden of the people. He said the measure should be recommitted to the Finance Committee, with instructions to draft a bill "worthy of serious consideration."

Philippine Relief Bill Passed.

The House passed a bill on June 20 authorizing the Philippine government to increase the limit of indebtedness from $15,000,000 to $30,000,000, this action being taken to relieve the acute financial situation in the islands as reported by Major Gen. Leonard Wood, U.S. A., and former Governor General Forbes in a message sent to Secretary of War Weeks. This message was transmitted to Congress on June 17 by Mr. Weeks, who asked immediate action on the bill. General Wood and Mr. Forbes, who are investigating conditions in the islands for President Harding, said the national bank, with which the island government, provinces and municipalities are required to deposit all funds, is "practically insolvent."

Longevity Pay for Army Officers.

The Senate on June 17 passed the bill (S. 775) to confer jurisdiction on the Court of Claims to certify certain findings of fact in the matter of longevity claims of Army officers in which during the period 1890-1908 credit for service as cadets at the Military Academy was disallowed by the Comptroller, and the right to which credit was later sustained by the Supreme Court.

Monthly Payment of Pensions.

The House on June 21 passed the bill (H.R. 2158) providing that payment of pensions shall be made monthly, on the 4th day of each month, beginning not later than September, 1921.

Ordnance Storekeeper in the Army.

The Senate on June 20 passed the bill (S. 834) to appoint Nathan Haren chief clerk, office of Chief of Ordnance Department, U.S. Army, an ordnance storekeeper of the Ordnance Department, U.S.A., with rank and pay and allowances of a captain, mounted, and that he be immediately placed upon the retired list. The grade of ordnance storekeeper is hereby revived in the Army of the United States for this purpose only. Mr. Wadsworth explained that Haren "has been in the Ordnance Department for forty-four years. He has been chief clerk for a long, long time. During the recent emergency he was given a nemergergency commission. His age is far beyond that which would permit him to enlist in the Regular Army and be retired in the usual way and he is not eligible for any other kind of reward."

Transportation from Europe for Discharged Soldiers.

The House on June 21 passed the bill (H.R. 1019) authorizing the Secretary of War to furnish free transportation and subsistence from Europe and Siberia to the United States for certain destitute discharged soldiers and their wives and children. The authority conferred by this act shall cease and determine six months after approval thereof.

Relief of John B. H. Waring.

The Senate on June 17 passed the bill (S. 667) authorizing the President to restore to John B. H. Waring, late a captain in the Medical Corps, the files of which he was deprived, and, by and with the advice and consent of Senate, appoint him an officer of Medical Corps, U.S.A., as of May 5, 1917, with such rank as he would have attained had he not been discharged, and when so appointed he shall be placed on the retired list. Mr. Sutherland, in explaining the bill, said: "Waring was in the Medical Corps. He was examined two or three times before he went in and by Army officers after he went in and at the time of his going in, and was declared to be a perfectly sound candidate for his position as an officer in the Army. He was serving in the Philippine Islands and suffered what is called a light stroke, a form of sunstroke; and from that trouble, incident to the service and declared to be so by the physician who examined him, he went through a series of mishaps which finally resulted in his getting out of the Army. This bill has been gone over twice by the Military Affairs Committee of the Senate, has been twice reported favorably and was once acted upon favorably by the Senate."

AERIAL BOMBING TESTS BEGUN.

Navy Seaplanes Sink Ex-German U-117 in 16 Minutes.

Within sixteen minutes of the time the Navy's effort to sink the ex-German U-117 with aerial bombs began and with the expenditure of twelve bombs, dropped in two attacks, the former German submarine was sunk sixty miles off Hampton Roads on the morning of June 21. As a test of the aerial marksmanship of the Navy's fliers under peace conditions the bombing was a decided success, surpassing the expectations of the Navy Department and of the Navy officers on duty in Washington. Brief as the test was, for the first attack was at 10:23 a.m. and the ex-German U-117 sank beneath the sea at 10:39 a.m., it was not without picturesque features. The former German submarine lay at anchor awash, with the Battleship Force of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, under command of Vice Admiral H. P. Jones, forming a half circle to seaward of the target to give a view of the operations to the personnel. The battleships included the U.S.S. Pennsylvania, Nevada, Oklahoma, Arizona, Delaware, North Dakota and Utah. Nearer the anchored submarine was the U.S.S. Shawmut, flagship and tender of the Fleet Air Force, and the U.S.S. Henderson on board of which were the invited guests, correspondents and photographers, numerous destroyers and mine sweepers attending these two ships. Overhead several Army and Navy dirigibles performed observation duty; and a line of destroyers, spaced ten miles apart toward Cape Charles, stood ready for the rescue work in case any of the aircraft were forced down during the tests. The weather was ideal, observation being excellent and a light breeze blowing.

The Navy Department's statement regarding the test consisted of the dispatch received just after the completion of the test. It reads:

Ex-German U-117 sunk by aerial bombing in sixteen minutes to-day sixty miles off Hampton Roads. One flight of three F-5-L planes sank the submarine with twelve bombs in two attacks. The first attack was at 10:23, with three bombs dropped. None registered a direct hit, but registering close to the mark. The second attack by the same three planes returning was at 10:32, with nine bombs dropped from an altitude of approximately 1,200 feet. There was one direct hit just aft of the conning tower. Eight other bombs dropped within a very few yards of the vessel. At 10:38 the bow of the submarine submerged. At 10:39 the conning tower submerged. 10:39 U-boat went down. Just after submarine went down Lieut. Col. C. C. Culver, flying an Army plane, crashed near U.S.S. Henderson. Culver and his plane rescued by Navy.

The division of seaplanes was in command of Lieut. (j.g.) Delos Thomas, R.F., naval air station, Hampton Roads, Va. The three planes were individually in charge of Lieut. Campbell Keene, R.F., and Lieut. (j.g.) G. E. Rumill and E. T. Garvey, both R.F., and attached to the U.S.S. Shawmut. Supplied with charts giving the position of the U-117 the three planes approached their mark in battle formation, coming down to a height of about 1,100 feet and dropping three bombs in the first attack. These bombs fell close enough to the submarine to lift her bow out of the water and some of the civilian observers thought she was sinking. The planes circled around again and approached the target the second time, each dropping three bombs from an altitude of 1,200 feet, one making a direct hit aft the conning tower. Seven minutes later the U-117 sank beneath the waters of the Atlantic for the last time. The aerial marksmanship of the Navy fliers was so efficient that at their second attempt the former German submarine was sunk and one of the conditions of the international agreement as to the complete destruction of the vessels of the surrendered German navy was carried out to the end.

Two mishaps to aircraft marked the day, one at the scene of the bombing tests and one having no connection with it but resulting in the destruction of the Navy seaplane NC-7 at Hampton Roads. As referred to in the dispatch quoted above, Lieut. Col. C. C. Culver, U.S.A., flying in a single seater Army plane at the scene of the tests crashed to the surface of the sea. Although thrown out of the machine he swam back to it, and was assisted by the crew of a Navy seaplane floating nearby. Launches from the Shawmut and Henderson put off to his rescue, the Shawmut's boat taking his plane in tow to the Air Force tender where it was hauled up on deck. Colonel Guyler was uninjured. The accident to the NO-7 took place when the seaplane was flying at a height of 150 feet above Hampton Roads. An explosion took place in the machine and she caught fire, dropping to the surface of the bay. Her crew of three officers and seven men, were rescued by a passing Army tug but the plane itself could not be saved.

Destroyers Sink Two Ex-German U-Boats.

The second of the scheduled exercises with the former German ships took place on June 22 when a destroyer division, under command of Comdr. C. B. Mayo, U.S.N., attacked and sank the U-140 and U-48 at sea sixty miles off Cape Charles. The dispatch received at the Navy Department from the U.S.S. Henderson on that date reads:

Two more ex-German U-boats are at the bottom of the Atlantic. Destroyer division under command of Comdr. C. B. Mayo attacked U-140, sixty miles off Cape Charles, at 10 a.m. Mayo on U.S.S. Dickerson fired first. Thirty-nine shots were fired and nineteen hits scored. The U-boat went under, nose up, in 1 hour 24 minutes 30 seconds. The same division made attack on U-48, and destroyer U.S.S. Sicard under command of Lieut. Comdr. P. A. Laroche fired forty shots in 4 minutes 45 seconds. Twenty hits were scored. The U-boat sank in 29 minutes 5 seconds. Construction officers believed valuable data was secured from destruction of vessel. Range was from 2,000 to approximately 3,000 yards.

The destroyers approached the targets from a distance of 5,000 yards, bows on. They passed much closer to the submarines when firing broadsides, making a speed of twenty knots. The U-boats were anchored bow and stern. Technical experts of the Navy expressed great satisfaction at the way the bomb fuses functioned, all the shells which hit the submarines penetrating the outer skin and exploding inside. The board of observers, headed by Capt. Luke McNamee, U.S.N., was on board the U.S.S. Barney and within 500 yards of the U-boats during each attack.

The U.S.S. Henderson will leave the navy yard at Washington at daylight on June 27 for the exercises on June 28 in connection with the former battleship Iowa. All persons who have been invited to witness the test from the Henderson are required to be on board the transport at eleven p.m. on June 26, and invited observers are requested to be prompt so that all may secure a night's rest before the vessel gets under way.

NEW ASSIGNMENTS OF NAVY PERSONNEL.

Assignments to Fleet Command, etc.

Secretary Denby on June 19 announced the assignments of the commanders of the U.S. Atlantic and Pacific Fleets and several other assignments to important posts at shore stations. The new commanders-in-chief of the fleets (as forecast in our issue of May 14) are Vice Admiral Hilary P. Jones to command the U.S. Atlantic Fleet with rank of admiral, succeeding Admiral Henry B. Wilson, who on July 1 becomes Superintendent of the U.S. Naval Academy, and Rear Admiral Edward W. Eberle to command the U.S. Pacific Fleet, succeeding Admiral Hugh Rodman, who has been ordered to command the 5th Naval District. The unexpected in the Secretary's announcement was the assignment of Rear Admiral John D. McDonald, commandant at the New York Navy Yard, to be vice admiral and second in command of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, and also to command the Battleship Force, filling the vacancy left by Admiral Jones; and the assignment of Rear Admiral W. R. Shoemaker, commanding the 14th Naval District, Hawaii, to be vice admiral and second in command of the U.S. Pacific Fleet and to command Battleship Force 4, succeeding Vice Admiral Clarence S. Williams. It had been generally anticipated that Rear Admiral Josiah S. McKean would be advanced to the vice admiralty, with the possibility of Vice Admiral Williams becoming commander-in-chief.

Capt. A. L. Willard, who has had numerous tours of duty as commandant of the Washington Navy Yard and superintendent of the Naval Gun Factory, and whose administrative abilities have won him wide recognition, has been assigned to the new post in the Navy Department, Aid for Navy Yards to the Secretary of the Navy. This appointment is provided for in G.O. No. 53, standardizing the organization and administration of navy yards and naval stations.

Admiral Jones was awarded the D.S.M. for meritorious service during the World War. At that time he first commanded Squadron One of the Patrol Force, Atlantic Fleet, and later Division Four and the Newport News Division of the Cruiser and Transport Force, Atlantic Fleet. Since 1919 he has been vice admiral of the Atlantic Fleet. He was commissioned a permanent rear admiral April 1, 1919.

Admiral Eberle was commissioned a permanent rear admiral July 1, 1919. During the World War he was in command of Battleship Division Five, Atlantic Fleet, and was awarded the D.S.M. for meritorious service.

Vice Admiral McDonald was awarded a Navy Cross for services during the World War, while commandant of the New York Navy Yard. He was commissioned rear admiral Dec. 31, 1918.

Vice Admiral Shoemaker was commissioned a permanent rear admiral July 1, 1919. He was awarded a Navy Cross for his services during the World War and for a time during that period he was in command of the Third Division of the Atlantic Fleet.

The following changes among high officers of the U.S. Navy were announced by the Navy Department on June 21:

Rear Admiral A. H. Scates, Superintendent, Naval Academy, relieves Rear Admiral E. W. Eberle, 7th Battleship Division, Atlantic Fleet.

Rear Admiral H. A. Field, commanding Train, Pacific, to relieve Rear Admiral H. O. Stickney as a member of Board of Inspection and Survey, Pacific Coast section. Rear Admiral Stickney relieves Rear Admiral Field in command of Train of Pacific Fleet.

Rear Admiral Casey B. Morgan, waiting orders, to relieve Rear Admiral H. F. Bryan, commanding special Service Squadron, Rear Admiral Bryan to relieve Rear Admiral G. F. Cooper as Commandant of 8th Naval District.

Rear Admiral W. H. G. Bullard, Director of Naval Communications, to command the Yangtze Patrol.

Rear Admiral G. H. Burrage, Commandant of the Norfolk Navy Yard, to relieve Capt. W. V. Pratt, commanding Pacific destroyers. Captain Pratt to duty on General Board.

Rear Admiral T. P. Magruder, naval attaché in Paris, to command Reserve destroyers, Pacific Fleet.

Rear Admiral Thomas Snowdon, Governor of Santo Domingo, to duty on General Board.

Rear Admiral M. Johnston, now on waiting orders, to duty on General Board.

Admiral Hugh Rodman, Commander-in-Chief Pacific Fleet, to be Commandant of the 5th Naval District.

Rear Admiral Nathan C. Twining, now Chief of Staff of Pacific Fleet, has been selected for assignment as naval attaché of American Embassy in London.

Capt. C. T. Vogelgesang, Chief of Staff, Atlantic, to relieve

Rear Admiral J. D. MacDonald as Commandant of New York Navy Yard. Capt. T. A. Kearny to be manager of the yard. Effective June 30.

Rear Admiral A. T. Long, Director of Naval Intelligence, to relieve Capt. C. T. Vogelgesang as Chief of Staff of Atlantic Fleet.

Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, now on waiting orders, to relieve Rear Admiral G. H. Burrage as Commandant of Norfolk Navy Yard. Effective June 30.

Rear Admiral J. W. Oman, now on waiting orders, to be Superintendent of Naval Observatory, Washington, relieving Rear Admiral J. A. Hoogerwerf, assigned to command the 13th Naval District and Puget Sound Navy Yard.

Capt. Benjamin F. Hutchison, Assistant Chief of Naval Operations, to relieve Rear Admiral Twining as Chief of Staff of the Pacific Fleet.

Capt. Noble E. Erwin to command Portsmouth Navy Yard. Effective July 9.

PROMOTION OF NAVY LINE OFFICERS.

Recommendations of Selection Board as Approved.

The recommendations of the Navy Line Selection Board, which chose for advancement nine officers for permanent rear admiral, forty-three for permanent captain and 107 for permanent commander, were approved by the President on June 21. The selections indicate that the selection board "picked up" only one officer who had been passed over last year for the grade of rear admiral and left unmoved those officers who had been passed over for promotion to the grade of captain. In the selections for rear admiral the board overlooked several temporary rear admirals and advanced four permanent captains to the grade of permanent rear admiral. The promotions with dates of rank (all in 1921) are as follows:

To be permanent rear admirals:

Rear Admirals (T) Mark L. Bristol, May 29; Archibald L. Scates, Richard H. Jackson, Nathan C. Twining, Capt. Benjamin F. Hutchison and Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, all June 3.

Capt. Sumner E. W. Kittelle and William V. Pratt, all June 3; Louis McC. Nulton, Aug. 12.

In explanation of the fact that Captain Hutchison's name appears before Admiral Magruder's, it was stated at the Navy Department that in their advanced rank Rear Admiral Hutchison will rank Rear Admiral Magruder in the permanent list of rear admirals, and the report of the Selection Board was submitted in accordance with the permanent standing of the officers selected for rear admiral. Until Dec. 31, when temporary appointments are abolished, Admiral Magruder will rank Admiral Hutchison.

To be permanent captains:

Comdr. Harlan P. Merrill, May 11; William H. Reynolds, May 27; Orin G. Murfin, May 29.

Leonard R. Sargent, Luther M. Overstreet, David F. Boyd, Walton R. Sexton, William D. Leahy, Andrew T. Graham, Arthur St. C. Smith, William McDowell, Austin Kautz, Charles T. Owens, William C. Asserson, Clarence S. Kempf, John Halligan, Jr., William C. Watts, Lyman A. Cotten, Zeno E. Briggs, William T. Tarrant, Clarence A. Abele, Thomas L. Johnson, Vanney S. Williams, Edward T. Consten, George T. Pettigill, David C. Hanrahan, Charles P. Nelson, Herbert G. Sparrow, Edward B. Fenner, Victor A. Kimberly, Joseph K. Tausig, Claude C. Bloch, Henry E. Lackey, Edward C. Kalbfus, Charles H. Woodward, William S. Miller, all from June 3.

Cyrus W. Cole, John W. Greenslade, Charles E. Courtney, Adolphus E. Watson, Henry L. Brinser, all from July 1. James H. Tomb, Aug. 12; Edgar B. Latimer (date of rank not determined).

To be permanent commanders:

David Lyons, Robert W. Kessler, Charles C. Soule, Jr., Charles H. Bullock, Lawrence P. Treadwell, Arthur H. Rice, Halsey Powell, all from Jan. 1.

Forrest A. Todd, May 11; Cleon W. Mauldin, Feb. 11; Aubrey W. Shown, May 11; Abram Claude, May 27; Nathan W. Post, May 29.

Harry A. Stuart, William F. Halsey, Roscoe F. Dillen, Herbert H. Michael, Allen B. Reed, Christopher R. P. Rodgers, David W. Bagley, Walter A. Smead, Max M. Frucht, Charles S. Joyce, Ormond L. Cox, Royal E. Ingersoll, Herbert F. Leary, Chester W. Nimble, Robert B. Coffey, Joseph V. Ogan, Albert T. Church, Logan C. Crespy, John N. Ferguson, Arthur C. Stott, William S. McClintic, Byron McCandless, Roscoe C. MacFall, Robert L. Irvine, Bruce L. Canaga, Walter B. Woodson, William R. Furlong, all June 3.

Charles H. Shaw, Edmund S. Root, Arthur R. Cook, Herbert E. Kays, Louis P. Davis, George C. Peggam, Harold G. Bowen, Edgar G. Oberlin, George M. Baum, Isaac C. Johnson, Jr., Richard P. McCullough, George V. Stewart, Arthur K. Atkins, Jonathan S. Dowell, Nelson H. Gosa, Stanford C. Hooper, William O. Spears, Walter H. Lassing, Harry E. Shoemaker, John H. Newton, Albert Norris, Anthony J. James, John M. Poole, 3d, William E. Eberle, William L. Culbertson, Theodore G. Ellyson, Wilhelm L. Friedell, Burton H. Green, Isaac F. Dorch, all June 3.

John J. London, Gordon W. Haines, Ross S. Culp, John W. Wilcox, Jr., Laurence N. McNair, William Bagley, Benjamin Dutton, Jr., Halford R. Greenlee, Vaughn K. Conan, Reed M. Fawell, Harry A. Orr, Alexander E. Wadsworth, James S. Woods, Lloyd W. Townsend, John M. Smealie, William P. Gaddis, Genneth Whitting, George B. Wright, Henry M. Jensen, George S. Bryan, Robert L. Ghormley, William L. Calhoun, Russell Willson, Leigh Noyes, Eldred B. Armstrong, William A. Glassford, Jr., Conant Taylor, William A. Hall, Douglas L. Howard, all June 3.

Arthur L. R. Bristol, Jr., Frank J. Fletcher, John H. Towers, Julian H. Collins, Milo F. Dramel, Thomas Withers, Isaac C. Bogert, all July 1.

Pierre L. Wilson, Aug. 12.

Walter F. Jacobs and Leo F. Welch, date of rank undetermined.

Promotions to Lieutenant Commander.

As a result of the above recommendations of the selection board, the permanent promotions in the grade of lieutenant commander, to rank from June 3, 1921, have been extended eleven files, to include Walter A. Edwards. In our issue of June 18, page 1136, it was noted that the promotions would go down to and include Lieut. Comdr. (T) Waldon L. Ainsworth of the line. In addition the following permanent promotions to the grade of lieutenant commander will occur as indicated:

To be permanent lieutenant commanders:

Line—Frederick G. Reinicke, June 4 (as result of retirement of Comdr. (T) Carroll S. Graves on June 3; Valentine N. Belg, Bolivar V. Meade, Godfrey deO. Chevalier, Miles E. Refo, Jr., Samuel W. Gings, Edgar M. Williams, Walter D. LaMont, all July 1, as a result of age-in-grade retirements on June 30; Earl L. McIntyre, July 1, as a result of retirement of Lieut. Comdr. Farmer Morrison on June 30; Howard A. Flanagan, July 1, as result of the resignation of Lieut. Comdr. Lindsay H. Lacy on June 30.

Age-in-Grade Retirements.

Retirements on account of age-in-grade as of June 30 were announced by the Navy Department on June 22 as follows: Capt. George F. Cooper, William W. Gilmer, Robert B. Higgins (additional number), Robert L. Russell and Roy C. Smith. Comdrs. Charles J. Lang, Claude B. Price and Jay H. Sypher. Lieut. Comdr. Farmer Morrison. All the vacancies in the grades of captain and commander caused by these retirements were filled by officers recommended by the selection board as noted above.

MAINTENANCE OF NAVY DISCIPLINE.

Responsibility of Commanding Officer Is Undivided.

In connection with an order detaching Capt. Clark D. Stearns, U.S.N., from command of the battleship Michigan, and assigning him to duty at the Puget Sound Navy Yard, the Bureau of Navigation on June 22 issued the following memorandum:

Navigation Memo. as to Detachment of Capt. Stearns.

Memorandum.—The department received by reference from the Commander-in-Chief of the Atlantic Fleet on May 13, 1921, a recommendation that the commanding officer of the Michigan be detached from the command of that vessel, largely because the manner of the administration of the command of the Michigan was not considered for the best interests of the naval service; and this matter, after having been taken up by the commander of Battleship Squadron Two of the Atlantic Fleet with the commanding officer of the Michigan, was forwarded through the vice admiral commanding the battleship force and the Commander-in-Chief of the Atlantic Fleet, both of whom approved the recommendation of the commander of Battleship Squadron Two.

The department, concurring in the recommendations of these three senior officers, detached the commanding officer of the Michigan and assigned him to other duty commensurate with his rank.

The primary cause of the detachment of the commanding officer of the Michigan was the putting in force aboard that vessel a ship's routine order by which it was considered that the discipline of the vessel was not retained and exercised entirely by the commanding officer, as required by the statute law, by Navy Regulations and the long-established customs of the naval service. A copy of the order referred to is attached hereto.

Subsequent to the detachment of the commanding officer of the Michigan, he informed the Secretary that a similar order to that referred to on board the Michigan had been carried into effect on board a vessel which he had previously commanded, and that this action had been explained to and was approved by the previous Secretary of the Navy, which statement has been accepted by the department. The present Secretary was not aware of favorable action by his predecessor on this or a similar order upon a previous ship until so informed. In view of the approval by his predecessor of the prior order, the Secretary, while in no way changing his view of the impropriety and inadvisability of the commanding officer sharing his responsibility with his subordinates, contrary to law, does not consider that the commanding officer was at fault, as he first appeared to be.

For the reasons above stated, it is probable that the commanding officer concerned will be given an appropriate sea command in the near future.

Secretary Denby's View.

In the case of another commanding officer of a battleship of the Atlantic Fleet it is learned at the Navy Department that prior to the recent dispersal of the Fleet this officer sought to learn the desires of the enlisted personnel as to the yard which was more convenient to the homes of a majority of the men. This duty is said to have been allotted to chief petty officers, who communicated the choice of one of two yards. Secretary Denby, who declined to disclose the name of the officer, said that he had received a reprimand because the Navy Department held that it alone had the authority to direct the movements of vessels in accordance with changing conditions. He asserted that he did not detach this commanding officer from his ship for his action in the case.

The Secretary in speaking of the case of Captain Stearns, on June 23, was quoted as saying that that officer had convinced him that he had acted under verbal instructions from former Secretary of the Navy Daniels in carrying out the policy of "self-government" by the enlisted men of the vessel, and that his relief was not to be held against his record. In a formal memorandum on the subject Secretary Denby said in part:

"The present Secretary was not aware of favorable action by his predecessor on this or a similar order until so informed. In view of the approval by his predecessor of the prior order, the Secretary, while in no way changing his view of the impropriety and inadvisability of the commanding officer sharing his responsibility with his subordinates contrary to law, does not consider that the commanding officer was at fault, as he at first appeared to be."

In press interviews Secretary Denby was further quoted as saying: "No formal order putting in effect such a system in the Navy was ever issued. I acted in the matter after I had received recommendations from the commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Fleet. Captain Stearns has been detached from command of the Michigan because of the dangerous character of that kind of work. I shall always approve the collection of information respecting the personnel and discipline maintained among the enlisted men of the Navy. But such information should be gathered by the commanding officers and not left in the hands of the crew."

A comment by former Secretary of the Navy Daniels, on June 23, is given by the New York World, in which he said: "A morale committee consisting of petty officers and enlisted men on every ship in the Navy would promote better morale in the entire Naval Service. It would be the introduction on shipboard in a modified way of the honor system which has worked so well in American colleges. Instead of weakening discipline it would undergird it."

Captain Stearns's Order.

The "ship's routine order" referred to in the above memorandum was issued from the captain's office of the U.S.S. Michigan while at Tangier Sound, Md., on May 3, 1921. The order, No. 17, which in full would more than fill one of our columns, states that its object is "to locate and eliminate, where possible, causes leading to infractions of regulations," the order further being described as "tentative, pending a practical solution of the problem." It presented the professional military viewpoint as to what discipline is, how a man's personal record should be kept, and stated that "any action taken by the commanding officer toward a delinquent is intended to be reformatory rather than punitive, and will include the motive of the accused as well as the effect of his act upon the discipline of the ship."

The outstanding feature of the order was the provision for the election by the crew of a Ship's Morale Committee "to assist the ship's morale officer or commanding officer in his work when desired." This committee was to include: Deck Force—Two chief petty officers; two petty officers; five non-rated men or PO's. Engineer Force—Two chief petty officers; two petty officers; five non-rated men or PO's. The object of this committee was to institute a ship's honor system for which a form of procedure and reports was outlined. Among the objects of the committee were "to investigate and report upon any case at mast which captain believes requires, in justice to the men, or to the ship's company, a more intimate knowledge of the circumstances than can be obtained at mast"; to "receive suggestions from the men regarding any matter which will improve the health, happiness, and comfort of the ship's company, or will tend to an increase in ship's efficiency"; also suggestions on professional subjects, amusements and athletics; and to "handle any question given them by the commanding officer which will be of benefit to the ship or naval service." The order requests men of the crew "to consult freely with their member of the committee and freely make suggestions." Decision of the committee to be reported to the commanding officer at regular request mast. "Any matter the commanding officer desires to investigate to get at inside facts, may be handed over to proper committee for investigation and report." The object of the committee, the order states, is "to obtain by above board, open methods the co-operation necessary to improve the efficiency of the ship and naval service." Under the head "Discipline" the order says:

A clear understanding of the word discipline is a necessary premise. Discipline does not mean punishment. Discipline is systematic training with a view to right conduct and prompt and efficient action under all circumstances, especially during the friction of war. This implies intelligent co-operation or willing submission to law and order through unity of purpose. This true discipline is based on right and justice, and its main ingredient is loyalty.

Discipline is a process used by the Navy to shape and form its personnel. The chronic delinquents developed by this process are its waste product. The greater the waste product the less efficient the discipline. Discipline is thus a medium through which organization is maintained. The efficiency of a ship's crew, its very force and power, is dependent on discipline for the reason that it demands unity of action more than any other body of men.

Morale is made or unmade by discipline. Therefore, it should be scientifically studied and applied as being the very foundation of military accomplishment. True Americanism demands, as the Constitution implies, intelligent obedience and willing submission.

Discipline should spring from necessity, from the logic of events and the immediate demands of a fixed principle to maintain the morale and efficiency of the Navy.

REDISTRIBUTION OF NAVY VESSELS.

Oil-Burning Battleships Concentrated in Pacific.

The redistribution of battleships of the U.S. fleets, announced by Secretary Denby on June 20, assigns the new oil-burning battleships Arizona, Nevada, Oklahoma and Maryland to the U.S. Pacific Fleet, in which they replace the coal-burning battleships New York, Texas, Wyoming and Arkansas, which are to form part of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet. The Secretary in his announcement said this redistribution was for the purpose of obtaining greater tactical homogeneity in the battleship and destroyer squadrons and to meet reduced appropriations for fuel. "The coal-burning battleships now attached to the Pacific Fleet will be gradually withdrawn to the Atlantic and replaced by oil-burning ships," he said. "This will result in a material saving in expenditures for fuel, as coal on the Pacific coast is approximately $9 a ton higher than on the Atlantic coast, while fuel oil on the west coast is at least thirty-three and one-third per cent. cheaper than on the east coast."

The New York and Texas will remain in the Pacific until August or September, and the Maryland, now fitting out at Newport News, will not go into commission for several months. The U.S.S. California, now about ready at the Mare Island Navy Yard, and which will be in command of Capt. Henry J. Ziegemeier, will replace the New Mexico as flagship of the Pacific Fleet, and the U.S.S. Texas will be the temporary flagship of Vice Admiral W. R. Shoenmaker, second in command of the Pacific Fleet. Three destroyer divisions are to be transferred from the Pacific to the Atlantic, but no other changes will be made in the present distribution due to this reorganization.

Combined Fleet Operations Planned.

The U.S. Atlantic and Pacific Fleets will be combined for about three months each year in the Caribbean or the Pacific, near Panama bay, for training in combined tactical operations, Secretary Denby announced. Admiral Hilary P. Jones, commander-in-chief of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, will be responsible for the training of the combined fleet and consequently will exercise command over both fleets during these operations. Admiral Jones will also be authorized at other times to inspect the U.S. Pacific Fleet in order to determine its progress in tactical training and to inspect all naval bases with a view to determining their effectiveness for the use of the fleet as a whole. The proposed visit of the combined fleet to Europe has been abandoned, it appears. The Secretary also stated that the U.S.S. Utah was to be detached from the U.S. Atlantic Fleet and assigned as flagship of Vice Admiral A. P. Niblack, commanding the U.S. naval forces in European waters, replacing the U.S.S. Pittsburgh, which is to come back to the United States for overhaul. This effectually disposes of the insistent report that the Utah was to be assigned as flagship of the Asiatic Fleet.

Composition of the Two Fleets.

The battleships of the two fleets, after the exchange of vessels and the completion of the California and Maryland, will be as follows:

U.S. Atlantic Fleet—Pennsylvania, flagship of Admiral Hilary P. Jones, commander-in-chief; Wyoming, flagship of Vice Admiral John McDonald, second in command; New York, Texas, Arkansas, Florida, North Dakota, Delaware.

U.S. Pacific Fleet—California, flagship of Admiral E. W. Eberle, commander-in-chief; New Mexico, flagship of Vice Admiral W. R. Shoenmaker, second in command; Idaho, Tennessee, Mississippi, Maryland, Arizona, Oklahoma, Nevada.

TRIALS OF THE U.S.S. MARYLAND.

The U.S.S. Maryland, first U.S. battleship to mount 16-inch guns, left Newport News June 21 for her builders' sea trials. The tests are being conducted by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, constructors of the vessel, and are being witnessed by observers of the Navy Department, a party of engineers of the General Electric Co., manufacturers of the ship's electric propulsion equipment, and a number of prominent shipbuilders. The Maryland is electrically equipped throughout and is expected to go into service early in the fall. On June 23 she completed a most satisfactory trial at sea of her machinery under supervision of representatives of the Bureau of Engineering and the Board of Inspection and Survey of Ships, Navy Department. These trials demonstrated that the electric machinery meets every requirement of the contract. No attempt was made to measure the speed because the ship had not been standardized on a measured mile and also because a full crew and the necessary instruments were not on board; each generator was, however, tested beyond its full power with every possible combination of pole and motor connections and the results were in all cases of the most satisfactory nature. The boilers and auxiliary machinery proved equally satisfactory. The Maryland will be delivered to the Government early in July and placed in commission at the Norfolk Navy Yard under the command of Capt. Charles F. Preston, U.S.N. Shortly thereafter she will join the Pacific Fleet.

NOTES OF NAVY PERSONNEL.

Resignations of Navy Officers.

Resignations of Navy officers were accepted by Secretary Denby in the week of June 16-23 as follows: Lieuts. D. C. Fox, line; R. L. Christie, Med. Corps; J. K. Bacon, C. C. Temporary officers: Lieuts. J. D. Lennon, line; D. D. Shoenfeld, Med. Corps; Lieuts. (j.g.) C. C. Gillis, C. C. Roberts; Ensign C. Camp.

VARIOUS NAVAL ITEMS.

The 35th Division of Destroyers left Singapore on June 20, 1921, for Saigon, Cochinchina, en route to Philippine Islands. This division consists of the Barker, Borie, John D. Edwards, Smith-Thompson, Tracy and Whipple.

The armory at the naval air station, Pearl Harbor, H. T., was destroyed by fire on June 18. Report to the Navy Department stated that the material loss will be about 75 per cent. and that the origin of the fire had not been learned. No personnel was injured.

Requests for Submarine Duty.

All ships and stations have been notified by the Bureau of Navigation that the next class for instruction and training in submarines will commence Oct. 1. Officers who have completed two years' sea duty subsequent to graduation from the U.S. Naval Academy are eligible for this course. All requests for this duty are to be on file in the Bureau of Navigation by Aug. 15.

Revision of Navy Ratings.

The Bureau of Navigation in March last established certain new petty officer ratings, among which were ratings of chief signalman and signalman, 1st, 2d and 3d classes. These are petty officers' ratings and are intended to take the place of the former ratings of chief quartermaster (signal) and quartermasters (signal), 1st, 2d and 3d classes. Seamen signalmen are men detailed for signal duties and they receive extra compensation in addition to the monthly pay of their ratings when regularly detailed for this duty. This is not a petty officer rating and the proper designation of such men is "seamen signalmen."

Health Records of Naval Reserve Officers.

Commandants of naval districts have been notified that the Bureau of Navigation desires every physical examination of Naval Reserve officers to be thorough, whether for enrollment, re-enrollment, transfer to Class 2, reporting for active training duty, or release from active training duty. Authority for enrollment of Reserve officers will be forwarded by way of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery in order that an extract from the medical history may be attached. If no health record is available in the latter bureau the commandant will furnish the medical examiner an extract of the medical history, if possible. Results of all physical examinations are to be forwarded to the Bureau of Navigation via the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, and a copy of the report to the commandant of the naval district. If found physically qualified a new health record will be opened in each case and forwarded to the commandant.

Ex-German Submarine U-111 Sunk.

The ex-German submarine U-111, which was to be used in bombing exercises off the Virginia capes, filled and sank in five fathoms of water three miles off Cape Henry Light on June 18. No personnel was aboard. The vessel was under tow at the time by the Quail from Portsmouth, N.H., and was later beached in Lynnhaven Roads. The U-111, it was officially reported, had been taking in water slowly all the way down, but early on June 17 began to take in water faster and it became necessary to beach her. As soon as the submarine was beached wrecking pumps were put to work upon her, but with little success and tugs made an attempt to drag her a little higher up on the beach.

MARINE CORPS NOTES.

The strength of the Marine Corps reached 21,558 enlisted men by the end of May; the strength of the Reserves was 4,304. There were 668 men enlisted during the month, 336 were discharged, and 99 deserted. Of the month's enlistment 590 signed on for three years and sixty-nine for four years.

A party composed of members of Congress were the guests of Major Gen. Commandant John A. Lejeune, U. S.M.C., on June 21 on a visit to Quantico, Va., to witness the work on the new parade ground which Marine Corps personnel is making. A Navy Eagle boat was used for the trip, and the party was received and shown about the camp by Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, commanding officer at Quantico.

The 5th Marines at Quantico has practically reached full strength, based on the Army peace regimental organization of rifle companies of ninety-three men and machine gun companies of seventy-eight men. The 6th Marines is in process of organization, has a supply company, two machine gun companies and the 74th Rifle Company with a strength of 125 rifles as a demonstration company.

Changes in Marine Corps Uniform.

The board to consider changes in the Marine Corps uniform met at headquarters on June 23, Major Gen. Wendell C. Neville presiding. The principal changes to be considered are in relation to the overcoat, which may be modified so as to approximate for officers the length prescribed for enlisted men and possibly a change to the standing turn-over collar and as to the adoption of full dress, of evening social dress and relative to design of an overseas cap.

Officers of Temporary Commission.

The list of temporary captains and lieutenants of the Marine Corps who are to be separated from the Service in accordance with provisions of the act of June 4, 1920, is reaching completion. Many temporary officers have been given permanent appointments and others have been reverted to a civilian status. This final list will complete the process of transfer of temporary officers to a permanent status.

NAVY WINS COLLEGE BOAT RACE.

Also Breaks Three-Mile Record at Poughkeepsie.

The Navy crew from the U.S. Naval Academy won the intercollegiate eight-oared race on the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie on June 22 by four lengths from five other contenders and also broke the three-mile record, the Navy's time being fourteen minutes and seven seconds. The best previous time was fifteen minutes and fifty-one and a half seconds made by the University of Pennsylvania crew on Saratoga Lake in 1898. The story of the race is, the Navy jumped out in the lead at the start and was never headed nor even in danger of losing its commanding place in the contest.

With the report of the starter's signal the midshipmen got away pulling a 32-stroke that sent their shell at once into the lead, with Cornell pulling the same stroke just behind them. At the half-mile the Navy was a clean length ahead of the crew from Ithaca with the crews from California, Columbia, Pennsylvania and Syracuse making a second division in the race. At the mile and a half mark Cornell spurred in an attempt to cut down the Navy's lead but without avail, the tireless, perfect stroke of the Navy being irresistible. The midshipmen swung across the finish line four lengths in front of California which had come from behind in a fashion that proved to be the sensation of the race and beat Cornell by so close a margin it was not until the official announcement of the placing of the crews was made that the spectators knew California was second. California's time was 14 mins. 55 1/2 secs. After Cornell, in third place, came Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Columbia. There were only a few midshipmen on the observation train to help along the Navy crew with their "4 N" cheer and at the finish mark the Service was represented by two old destroyers, Nos. 26 and 59. The Navy crew included:

Position.	Name.	Age.	Height.	Weight.
Row
1	V. J. Gallagher.....	22	6.00	170
2	H. A. Bolles.....	22	5.11	178

Averages.....		22	6.01	177
Coxswain	S. B. Clark.....	21	5.07	115

The winning Navy crew elected Mdsn. C. W. King, who rowed at No. 3 in the Navy boat, as captain for next year.

R.O.T.C. NOTES.

Connecticut Junior R.O.T.C.

A military tournament of the three junior units of the R.O.T.C. in the state of Connecticut was held at Meriden on May 27. The competing units were the Meriden High School, of which Major Arthur M. Edwards, U.S.A., retired, is P.M.S. and T.; the New Britain High School, of which Capt. Hollis C. Clark, U.S.A., retired, is P.M.S. and T.; and the Stamford High School, of which Lieut. Truman D. Thorpe, U.S.A., retired, is P.M.S. and T. The competition consisted of squad and platoon drill. The judges were Major D. A. Davison, Engrs., and Capt. Willis H. Hale, S.C., from Yale University. The Stamford High School won with a score of 1,352 points out of 1,500. The Meriden was second with 1,327. The New Britain and Stamford platoons were guests of the Meriden unit at dinner and dance after the competition. Much credit is due to Major Edwards and his cadet officers for their efforts in arranging this tournament.

Memphis R.O.T.C. High Schools Unit.

Lieut. Col. A. S. Frost, U.S.A., P.M.S. and T. at the Memphis (Tenn.) High Schools, contributes an article on "Our Military Department" to the commencement number of the Tech Daily, the journal of the high schools, in which he points out that Army ideas of discipline and training give one of the best possible preparations for life. The R.O.T.C. enrolment in the two high schools this year was 760 and the photographs of the units reproduced in the Tech Daily show them to be snappy young soldiers.

Detroit High Schools.

The second annual drill and military tournament of the Detroit High Schools R.O.T.C. took place on June 6 at Navin Field, the grounds of the Detroit American League Baseball Club, which were kindly loaned by the club owner, Mr. Frank Navin. The judges of competitive drills were: Col. Henry E. Eames, commanding 37th Infantry and post of Fort Wayne, Mich.; Major Dean Halford, 37th Inf., and Major Frederick Hanna, U.S.A., retired. A general review of the entire R.O.T.C. unit, consisting of the nine high schools, was received by Mr. Frank Cody, Superintendent of Schools, and Edward G. Heekel, formerly colonel of the 33d Regiment, 37th Division. Other events included a competitive parade by three battalions, competitive company and platoon drills, wall scaling, signaling, gallery practice firing, tent pitching, equipment and first aid races. A large silver cup was offered by Mayor James Couzens, of Detroit, for the winning battalion; and a silk banner by the Detroit News for largest aggregate number of points in all events; the Banta Publishing Co. donated specially bound books as prizes for different events and the Winchester Arms Co. a beautiful trophy for the gallery firing. There were also valuable musical instruments for the best bands. An interesting feature was the competitive firing between teams of girls belonging to the Winchester Junior Rifle Corps from each of the nine high schools. The Couzens cup was won by 1st Battalion, consisting of Northern, Cass and Central High Schools; the company cup by Northwestern High School, which also won the banner for largest aggregate number of points, the Southeastern High School being second.

Michigan Agricultural College.

The first annual military field day of the Michigan Agricultural College R.O.T.C. unit was held at East Lansing, Mich., on June 10 and included shelter tent pitching; drill down, under arms; tug-of-war; exhibitions by Coast Artillery, Cavalry, Infantry and of Stokes mortar fire; wall scaling; rescue and relay races; and escort of the Colors. All the competitions were for one prize, a silk guidon in the colors of the college and appropriately embroidered that was presented by Major P. G. Wrightson, Inf., U.S.A., on duty at the institution. It was won by the Cavalry unit under command of Major Mack Garr, Cav., U.S.A., and was presented to the cadet major, G. R. Phillips, by Miss Martha Stewart, the unit sponsor. The judges included Major Loren C. Grieve, U.S.A., inspector-instructor, M.N.G., and Adjutant General Berry, Colonel Rogers and Major Lewis, M.N.G.

WEST POINT.

West Point N.Y., June 22, 1921.

The annual garden party of the Martineau's Rock Association for the Preservation of the Warner House and Places of Historic Interest on Constitution Island was held on Saturday at Constitution Island, with a large attendance of members of the Association and guests. The chairman, Mrs. Charles E. Tracy, spoke briefly of societies of similar aim in England; Colonel Willcox delivered a short and brilliant address on West Point and Constitution Island in Revolutionary days. Mrs. Carter poured tea. The West Point band played old-fashioned airs.

Mrs. Danford is the guest of Mrs. Pendleton at her summer home at Fisher's Island. Mrs. Morrison entertained on Friday with a luncheon for her guest, Mrs. Roberts, wife of Col. C. D. Roberts, of Washington, and for Mmes. Woodhull, Fieberger, Holt, Wheat, Waltnall, Bonesteel, Crittendenberger and Keyes. Prof. and Mrs. Arthur N. Brown, of Annapolis, were week-end guests of their cousins, Mrs. Shields and Major and Mrs. Newman.

Mrs. G. V. Strong had a few guests in on Thursday to meet Madame Soyes, of Washington, at tea. Mrs. Murray, wife of Major Gen. Arthur Murray, of Washington, and her granddaughter, Miss Mary Preston, have been spending a few days with Major and Mrs. Nichols; Mrs. Nichols is a niece of Mrs. Murray's. Mrs. Bertram G. Clayton, widow of Colonel Clayton, was the guest of Col. and Mrs. Holt last week. Col. and Mrs. Robinson have gone to White Sulphur Springs for the summer. Major Gen. and Mrs. Summerville spent a few days here last week, the guests of Col. and Mrs. Danford. Colonel Reynolds and son Stephen are visiting at Elmira.

Mrs. Fieberger gave a bridge of three tables on Monday, when among the guests from away were Mrs. Clark, wife of Rear Admiral Clark, U.S.N.; Mrs. Murray, wife of Major Gen. Arthur Murray, and Mrs. Charles Wilson, of San Francisco. Major and Mrs. Surles have gone on a motoring trip to Rochester, Lockport and Watertown. Mrs. Tracy, wife of Colonel Tracy, has been spending a few days at the hotel, to visit her son, Cadet Max Tracy. Major and Mrs. Purdon have gone to Vermont on a vacation trip. Mrs. Coleman entertained with a bridge party on Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Arthur Murray and Mrs. Clark. Mrs. Fieberger served punch.

Mrs. Mayer is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Mayer. Rear Admiral and Mrs. Clark are guests of their daughter, Mrs. Kahle. Miss Anne Crawford, who has spent the winter and spring as the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Major and Mrs. D. McL. Crawford, has returned to her home at Mifflintown, Pa. Madame Soyes had dinner at the hotel on Saturday for Col. and Mrs. Carter, Col. and Mrs. Strong, Lieut. and Mrs. Gauthier. Mrs. Weaver and Marian spent the week-end in New York. Miss Fieberger and Mrs. O'Hare have returned from Vassar, where they attended the alumnae convention.

There have been several parties for cadets and girls. Mrs. Nichols gave a tea on Thursday for her cousin, Miss Mary Preston, of Washington, and a number of girls and cadets. Miss Consuelo Asensio gave a picnic at the playground on Wednesday evening for her guests, Miss Katherine Johnson, of Pittsburgh, and Jean Wheeler, of Salem, N.J., and also for the Misses E. W. Crawford, Mrs. Preston, Betty Goodloe, Virginia Walthall and Anne Wilson and a number of cadets and young men. Mrs. Morrison had a picnic party on Monday evening for Mrs. C. D. Roberts, Misses Eugenia Roberts, Jean Wheeler and Consuelo Asensio, Cadets H. B. and Thomas Roberts, Holmes and Royce. Major and Mrs. T. K. Brown gave a buffet supper before the hop on Tuesday evening for Miss Betty Goodloe; the other guests were the Misses Mary Preston, Jean Wheeler and Consuelo Asensio, Cadets Ordgen, Clever, Howard and Bruner.

Coleman Carter returned home last week from St. Luke's School. At the cadet hops during the holidays, Mrs. Cogswell received with Cadet Sather on Tuesday of last week; on Thursday Mrs. Greene received with Cadet Greig; on Saturday Mrs. Nichols with Cadet Smith; and on Tuesday, the final dance before the departure of the class for Camp Dix, Mrs. Nichols received with Cadet Stewart.

The closing exercises of the children's school were held at Memorial Hall on Monday; a pleasing musical program was given by pupils and Chaplain Wheat gave an interesting address. A graduating class of fourteen received diplomas from Major Morrison, officer in charge of the school.

The three brick houses, A, B and C, near the Cadet Hospital, are being removed to make room for the new wing to the hospital which is being constructed.

THE NAVAL ACADEMY.

Annapolis, Md., June 23, 1921.

Capt. Thomas R. Kurtz has assumed the duties of Commandant of Midshipmen, relieving Capt. Wat T. Cluverius. Mr. and Mrs. James M. King, of Good Hope, Ohio, who have been visiting Prof. William J. King, of the Naval Academy, their brother and brother-in-law, have returned to their home. Comdr. Jules James is the guest of Lieut. Comdr. Webb Trammell. Mr. M. W. Van Auker, of Utica, N.Y., is visiting his son and daughter-in-law, Comdr. and Mrs. W. R. Van Auker. Col. John C. Beaumont, U.S.M.C., was week-end guest of Comdr. and Mrs. D. L. Scott.

Ens. and Mrs. Felix L. Johnson, who have been visiting Mrs. J. A. Valiant at Wardour, have left for Wakefield Manor, Va., to visit Mrs. George Barnett, wife of Major General Barnett, U.S.M.C. Mrs. Charles Atwater, widow of Commander Atwater, who has been visiting here, has gone to Washington and will later go to her summer home in Maine. Mrs. Atwater recently came from San Domingo, where she spent the winter with her brother, Rear Admiral Thomas Snowden, military governor of San Domingo. Mrs. Atwater was accompanied by her son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Lybrand P. Smith. Mrs. Doyen, widow of Brig. Gen. C. A. Doyen, U.S.M.C., has gone to New York en route for Lake Sunapee, N.H., where she will be the guest of Mrs. H. C. Perham. Capt. C. P. Mathewson, U.S.N., and Mrs. Mathewson have taken apartments here at 215 King George street.

A son was born on Monday morning in this city to Capt. Keith E. Kinyon, U.S.M.C., and Mrs. Kinyon.

Carl Jefferson Weber, of Baltimore, has been appointed an instructor in English at the Naval Academy. He is a graduate of Johns Hopkins University, and was the Rhodes scholar from Maryland at Oxford University from 1914 to 1917. He was awarded a degree of bachelor of arts at Oxford in 1917, and was given last year the degree of master of arts. Instructor Weber's marriage to Miss Clara Carter, of Waterville, Me., takes place to-day (Thursday), and the instructor and his wife will sail for Europe, visiting England and the Continent, returning to Annapolis in two months.

Surg. I. S. K. Reeves, U.S.N., and his family left here on Monday for Norfolk and sailed June 22 by transport for Santo Domingo, where Dr. Reeves is ordered to relieve Dr. Reynolds Hayden on the staff of the Military Governor of Santo Domingo. Mrs. R. M. Johnston, of Germantown, Pa., who spent the week-end with Admiral Harry Knox, U.S.N., and Mrs. Knox, has returned to her home. Prof. and Mrs. Earl W. Thomson left Annapolis on Monday for Worcester, Mass., to be gone until September, and will spend part of their vacation at Eagle Eyrie, Coleman's Falls, Va., where Mrs. Thomson's parents have a summer home.

Capt. Woodward Phelps, U.S.N., who has been ill with pneumonia, is making a rapid improvement at the Naval Hospital here. Mrs. Phelps is here, stopping with Mrs. T. L. Johnson, wife of Captain Johnson, on the station ship, Reina Mercedes.

Comdr. W. E. Van Auker has assumed the duties of head of the Department of Ordnance, succeeding Comdr. Arthur P. Fairbank. Lieut. Comdr. R. P. Molten, U.S.N., Mrs. Molten and their two young sons left to-day for Pensacola, Fla., for station at the Aviation School. En route they will stop at St. Augustine, to visit Mrs. Molten's grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Clark announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eva Clark, to Dr. Lyman Morse Kella, instructor in the Department of Mathematics at the Naval Academy. Dr. Kella is a graduate of Columbia University and is a member of the American Mathematical Society. The wedding will take place in September.

Rear Admiral Seales and his family will leave Annapolis on Friday for Jamestown, N.I. Mrs. Seales and her three children will make their permanent residence at Jamestown. Rear Admiral Henry B. Wilson, the new Superintendent, will take charge of the Academy in July.

Lieut. Arthur Langfield, U.S.N., and Mrs. Langfield are on a motor trip to the Great Falls of Virginia. Mrs. Charles Noble, wife of Lieutenant Noble, U.S.N., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Martin, of Annapolis. Ensign D. T. Giles, a member of the class of 1921, is visiting friends in Annapolis.

GOVERNORS ISLAND.

Governors Island, N.Y., June 21, 1921.

An occasion of unusual interest was the luncheon given here June 16 by the Quartermaster Corps in commemoration of the 146th anniversary of the founding of the corps. The luncheon was at the noon hour and was attended by the entire official personnel of the corps on Governors Island. Lieut. Col. Benjamin H. Kerfoot was toastmaster, and after the last course was reached he introduced the first speaker, Brig. Gen. George P. Downey, who had come from Washington to represent the Quartermaster General, Major Gen. Harry L. Rogers. General Downey, who was warmly greeted by the members of the corps on Governors Island, including the officers and military and civilian employees of Fort Jay and 2d Corps Area Headquarters, spoke of the loyalty they had always displayed during his period of duty here and urged a continuance of this spirit. Capt. Daniel J. Dunn then read a message from the Quartermaster General, and Colonel Kerfoot introduced Lieut. Col. W. G. Doane, post commander, Lieut. Col. G. V. Heidt and Chaplain Edmund B. Smith, who made addresses. At the close of the luncheon there was music and a short informal dance. In celebration of the founding of the corps in 1775 was continued in the evening at the Hotel Astor, as already told in the Journal.

At the regular June meeting of the Governors Island Club the following were elected, their term beginning July 1: President, Major Gen. Robert Lee Bullard; first vice president, Lieut. Col. W. G. Doane; secretary and treasurer, Chaplain Edmund B. Smith; assistant secretary and treasurer, Capt. Paul R. Knight, to fill vacancies. Major Allen W. Gullion remains second vice president of the club.

Col. and Mrs. Edward Carpenter and Miss Juliet Carpenter have returned this week to Governors Island after an absence of six months, due to the serious illness of Colonel Carpenter, from which he has entirely recovered, to the happiness of their friends in the garrison.

FIFTH DIVISION NOTES.

Camp Jackson, S.C., June 18, 1921.

The officers and ladies of the 5th Field Artillery Brigade gave a reception at the Brigade Club Friday evening in honor of Capt. and Mrs. A. P. Rhett, who received a royal welcome on their return to Camp Jackson Thursday. They were married at Charleston on June 1, and the bride was Miss Cornelia Royall. They have been enjoying a fifteen days' honeymoon in New York state. For the welcome on Thursday the commanding officer of the 19th Field Artillery, Major Marshall Magruder, and the officers of his regiment assembled at the Gateway Service Club and met the newlyweds, who were driven thence on an Artillery caisson through the regimental area and to their newly assigned home at F-10 East.

The officers in the Medical Corps of Camp Jackson were hosts at a chicken dinner given for the members of the Columbia Medical Society Monday at the Medical Officers' Club. With the sixty invited guests about 100 were present. Lieut. Col. Kent Nelson welcomed the doctors from Columbia and Major Gen. John L. Hines gave a short address. Papers were read on scientific subjects by Major Albert G. Franklin, Major Walter J. Bristow, Capt. Wesley C. Cox and Lieut. Elgin O. Pratt. Clinical material was introduced by Major Frank L. Cole and Capt. Aubrey K. Brown.

Major W. W. Brabson spent several days last week in Knoxville, Tenn., where he attended the reunion of his class of 1901 of the University of Tennessee. Major Brabson addressed his class at their meeting and also gave an address before the members of the Young Men's Business Club of Knoxville.

Mrs. Cuyler Clark and Mrs. Richard A. Gordon accompanied their mother to Ohio, where they will spend the summer. Mrs. Mark M. Potter gave a bridge party Friday, complimenting Lieutenant Potter's sister, Miss Potter, from Texas. Mrs. W. B. Richie, sr., of Laurens, S.C., has returned to her home after visiting her son, Capt. W. R. Richie, jr. Little Sarah Richie accompanied her grandmother for a short visit.

A beautifully equipped Red Cross dispensary has been opened near the market place in Angeles, and during the three weeks it has been running hundreds of cases have been treated. This dispensary is unique in the islands, due to the fact that it affords as good medical service as any in the United States, the doctors from the post giving certain hours a week for this purely charitable purposes.

MANILA NOTES.

Manila, P.I., May 17, 1921.

The visit here of Major General Wood and ex-Governor Forbes on their mission to the Philippines has caused much entertaining in their honor. This included a dinner by Major General Kernan and a polo club affair. At the latter 500 people booked supper reservations and witnessed a fast game between Stotsenburg and Manila teams, Colonel Treat's Stotsenburg team winning by a close margin. On a stage backed with palms men from the Huron and colored troopers from the 9th Cavalry gave some very good vaudeville and music was furnished by the Constabulary band and that from the Huron. At the main guest table were General Wood, ex-Governor Forbes, Admiral and Mrs. Strauss, General Kernan, Governor Yeates, Col. and Mrs. McCoy, Manuel Quezon, Major Bowditch and others. Medical Service in Modern War

An exposition of the tactical functions of the Medical Department in Campaign

By Lieutenant Colonels P. S. BOND and C. F. MARTIN
With an introduction by Major-General M. W. IRELAND,
Surgeon-General, U. S. Army

This is a new and up-to-date study of the manner in which human life or "man power" is conserved in time of war. It is an exposition of the successful methods developed by the U. S. Army in the World War, in both open and stabilized warfare.

The Medical Department is not alone a humanitarian service to ease the sufferings of war, but a mighty offensive weapon which hurls against the enemy hundreds of thousands of able-bodied fighting men, who without its unremitting labors would be languishing in hospitals or convalescent camps or in their graves. Lacking an active and efficient sanitary service, the largest, most valiant and best equipped army would soon melt away from exposure, wounds and disease.

The Medical Department is thus one of the important combatant arms of the service, and fights in the very fore-front of battle.

The subject is treated from this point of view. It gives the practical application of the arts of medicine, surgery and sanitation to the needs of warfare.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

The Answers Department is intended for the information of all readers of the paper. We do not answer questions as to personal standing in examinations or individual prospects of appointment or call to duty. Inquiries are so numerous and so varied in character, and in so many cases require time for special research, that we are unable to respond to the request for a personal reply to letters. Inquiries will be answered in the paper as soon as possible after their receipt. Questions must be accompanied by name and address of inquirer.

J. W. L.—Your number is 7917. Promotions now due will go down to include 7828, Clive A. Wray.

J. T.—The Grant, not the Sherman, sailed from Manila Dec. 24, 1901, with the 4th Infantry. The rating of specialist fourth class adds $12 to an enlisted man's pay of private or private first class, whether he is on foreign service or home station. This would give a private first class, with specialist rating fourth class, on foreign station, in twenty-first year of service, $70.80 under the act of June 4, 1920.

E. F. M. asks: Who is senior in the following case: U. S. Naval Reserve officer on active duty whose commission dates prior to that of an officer (temporary) of the Regular Navy, or the latter? Both hold the rank of lieutenant (j.g.). Answer: The temporary officer of the Regular Navy.

L. S.—Your number is 8180. You are about 250 files below the lowest officer now due for promotion to captain.

P. H. R. asks: A and B take a competitive examination for staff sergeant, Medical Department. A passes with a grade of ninety per cent. B with a grade of eighty per cent. Their warrants are dated the same date. A has five years' service and B has ten years. Will A rank B on account of attaining a higher grade in the examination, or will B rank A on account of having more service? Answer: Length of service will determine.

J. T. H.—Specialist pay is not authorized in any grade but the seventh and sixth, private and private first class.

A. B. asks: (1) A is an officer commissioned in the second training camp as second lieutenant, provisional. This officer was twenty-three years old at time of commission. B is an officer commissioned in the second training camp on the same day as a first lieutenant, National Army. This officer was thirty-three years old at time of commission. Yet on the promotion list A is 150 files ahead of B. Why? (2) Will the vacancies now existing reach No. 8160 in the next block of promotions? Answer: (1) See "Fourth" step in formation of promotion list, as directed in sec. 24a of the Reorganization act; and where such commissioned service is equal, officers now in the Regular Army shall precede persons to be appointed under the provisions of this act, and the latter shall be arranged according to age. (2) No; will reach No. 7828.

J. K. asks: When will the next course of instruction start at the Finance School, Fort Washington, Md.? Answer: Soon after June 30. Write to Chief of Finance.

W. A. W. asks: (1) Should all vacancies, including the grade of captain, be filled, what would be the junior captain's number on the single list? (2) First Lieut. Lawrence B. Savage, Q.M.C., was commissioned a second lieutenant in the temporary forces May 2, 1919; commissioned a second lieutenant, Regular Army, to rank from July 1, 1920, and recently promoted first lieutenant, to rank from July 1, 1920. What is his number on single list? (3) First Lieut. George B. Garrett, Q.M.C., was commissioned a first lieutenant in the temporary forces May 3, 1918, and commissioned a first lieutenant, Regular Army, to rank from July 1, 1920. What is his number on the single list? Answer: (1) 7828. (2) 9194. (3) 9193.

J. K. asks: A member of the National Guard, not in Federal Service, develops a disability from prior service in the Army and is granted compensation therefor by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. Would it be proper for the guardsman to continue attending armory drills and receive pay for same? His disability is rated as temporary partial, and does not materially interfere with armory Guard duties. Answer: If the state force of which you are a member is not Federally recognized, your armory drill would bring you no Federal pay. If your organization asks to be federalized, physical examination will be required and you could not be accepted for duty unless physically fit. You cannot draw both pension (compensation) and armory drill pay from the U. S.

P. C.—Marine Corps service on Midway Island from April 6, 1904, to April 15, 1905, does not count double towards retirement.

SERGEANT D.E.M.L.—Special Regulations No. 46 will govern appointments in the Officers' Reserve Corps. Pending issue of this document apply through channel to The A.G. Enlisted men need not have had war commissions to qualify in the Reserve.

C. A. W.—See answer to S. E. B.

S. E. B.—See Army Regulations as to officers' leaves of absence. Leave status is determined by length of active commissioned service in the Army. Where this service has not been continuous leave accrues from date of acceptance of commission and which the officer returned to the Service. Service an enlisted man does not count for accrued leave due an officer. For longevity purposes count service as enlisted man or officer in the Federal Service.

J. T.—When the Army Appropriation bill is approved orders are expected to issue from the war Department giving the regulations for accepting applications for discharge, that the enlisted strength may be reduced as required in the act referred to.

W. H. asks: (1) G.O., W.D., c.s., authorize 504 technical sergeants for the Ordnance Department. Have that many been appointed to date? (2) The number of my warrant is 485, effective July 23, 1920. Is it possible to state where I now stand on the list of technical sergeants, Ordnance Department, as several have been promoted, retired or left the Service since the Reorganization bill of June 4, 1920, went into effect? Answer: (1) No; account of Cir. 87. G.O. 1 changes authorization. There are 387. (2) No. 362.

FORT LEAVENWORTH.

Fort Leavenworth, Kas., June 3, 1921.

Capt. H. Thurber, Q.M.C., will remodel Otis Hall building into apartments for officers' quarters as soon as plans are received from Washington. Otis Hall is now a bachelor building. There will be eight sets of officers' quarters, each to consist of a combination living and dining-room, two bedrooms, bath and kitchenette. The Field Artillery stable guard barracks are to be remodeled into quarters for non-commissioned officers.

At the Memorial Day service last Sunday at the post chapel "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," an anthem the music of which was composed by one of their own number, Major Paul W. Gibson, M.C., was sung effectively by a quartet composed of Mrs. Thomas A. Roberts, Mrs. William Morrison, Major Leigh Fairbanks and Major Gibson.

At a conference between Secretary of War Weeks and Congressman Anthony on Thursday the motor transport shop proposition for Fort Leavenworth was carefully gone over, and Mr. Weeks stated to Mr. Anthony that it was his intention to go ahead with the project. Congress appropriated $400,000 for this purpose last year, but one of the last acts of Secretary Baker was to disapprove it.

Miss Mary Jan Thayer, of Leavenworth, sister of Mrs. Edward H. Connor, jr., wife of Captain Connor, U.S.A., is a member of the first class of student nurses ever trained by the U. S. Army, which will be graduated June 12 in Washington. President Harding will present the diplomas.

Newell, Major Richard Moore, Miss Reaume and Miss Marsh, of Kansas City, Mo., and others. Col. and Mrs. P. D. Webster and Miss Mary Webster went to Kansas City Wednesday to attend the graduating exercises of Miss Barstow's School, Miss Anne Webster being a member of that class.

Quarters for 447 officers' families will be completed Aug. 15. Thirteen Infantry barracks will furnish eighty-one sets of quarters, the Engineer barracks forty-eight sets, and the three Artillery barracks—nine sets each—will furnish twenty-seven sets of quarters, according to Col. Harry Comstock, in charge of all the quartermaster activities except the actual construction work. Otis Hall is being converted into eight sets of quarters; the old hospital building will accommodate seven families. Next year there will be 600 officers, and that will mean more quarters for approximately 2,500 people.

FORT RILEY.

Fort Riley, Kas., June 11, 1921.

Capt. and Mmes. Putnam and Frank Richmond gave a supper party before the hop on May 28 for Lieut. Col. and Mmes. Lear, Henry Richmond, Col. and Mrs. Cavanaugh, Majors and Mmes. FORT DOUGLAS.

Fort Douglas, Utah, May 29, 1921.

Major M. Kirby, Air Service, was a recent visitor to Salt Lake City, making a special inspection trip for the Government mail service. During his stay he was honor guest at the regular Wednesday luncheon at the Commercial Club, and later at a special dinner given by the club's president, Mr. Curtis B. Hawley, at the Hotel Utah.

Through the courtesy of the commanding officer at Fort Douglas, permission has been obtained from the commanding general of the 9th Corps Area for the Utah National Guard to hold artillery firing with service ammunition on the Fort Douglas range.

Miss Leona Powers, leading lady with the Baker Stock Company at Portland, Ore., during the past season, has been visiting her uncle and aunt, Capt. and Mrs. Louis S. Whitney, at the post, for a short time, on her way East. She has been entertained at numerous affairs during her stay, among them a bridge tea given by Mrs. Richard S. Moran, wife of Captain Moran, five tables playing, with others joining for tea. Mrs. J. B. Corby entertained recently with a luncheon at "My Shop," at which six friends were guests. The affair was in compliment to her niece, Miss Ethel Daly, before her departure for her home, and the guests included Mrs. W. T. Stephenson, Mrs. R. S. Moran, Miss Leone Powers and Mrs. Whitney, besides the guest of honor.

Brig. Gen. U. G. McAlexander, former commander of the 9th Brigade of the 5th Division, U.S.A., at Camp Jackson, gave a splendid talk before the members of the Clarence E. Allen Post on Americanism. Capt. and Mrs. Morris Forbes and small son, formerly Salt Lake but now of Honolulu, have been spending a few days in Salt Lake, on their way to Camp Pike, Ark., where Captain Forbes is to be stationed.

Col. William A. Cavanaugh, retired, and Mrs. Cavanaugh are in the city for a short time, visiting Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Cherdron. Mrs. Cavanaugh was Miss Agnes Zane and they have many friends in Salt Lake, having been stationed at Fort Douglas for several years before the war. Mrs. Yeates, wife of Lieut. William Yeates, now stationed at Douglas, Ariz., is in Salt Lake to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Groesbeck. Major Alexander W. Cleary, jr., made the final inspection last week of the Utah University as to its military department. He commended the work of the young men and reported the entire outfit, horses and other equipment, in fine order.

The opening of the Ogden Arsenal, announced for early in May, was called off by the local officers, as it was found to be impractical to entertain a large number of visitors during the time the ammunition is being stored.

Mrs. T. P. Bender, of Los Angeles, sister of Mrs. J. B. Corby, of the post, has been visiting Major and Mrs. Corby. Miss Ethel Daly, of Rossville, Ga., who has been visiting Major and Mrs. Corby, has returned to her home. Mrs. John H. McChrystal and her small daughter, Bobbie, have returned from San Francisco, where they went to say good-bye to Capt. Arthur McChrystal and Mrs. McChrystal, who sailed recently for China, where Captain McChrystal has been detailed.

SAN DIEGO AND NEARBY BASES.

San Diego, Calif., June 9, 1921.

Mrs. Edgar Hill, of Coronado, accompanied her niece, Mrs. Byron G. Jones, to San Francisco, where they were to join the latter's husband, Major Jones, U.S.A., and sail for Manila, where Major Jones has been detailed for duty with the Air Service.

Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Louis C. Scheibla entertained recently with a dinner party at Hotel del Coronado, their guests including Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Schuyler P. Heim, Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Herndon B. Kelly, Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. George W. Ravenscroft and Mrs. Freilisen, wife of Lieut. Comdr. Raymond F. Freilisen.

Mrs. Herbert S. Jones, who has been visiting in Oakland since leaving Coronado, has started for Washington, D.C., with her little daughter to be with her husband, Lieutenant Jones, U.S.N., who is to be stationed at Annapolis, completing a course of study.

Entertaining in honor of Mrs. Frank Berry, of Chicago, who is the guest of Mrs. Roger Welles, Mrs. Thomas S. Jewett was hostess at a luncheon last Friday, her guests including Mmes. Welles, Edward Johnson of Chicago, W. P. B. Prentice, William Kettner and W. W. Gilmer, and Miss Mattie Tomb. Capt. and Mrs. Jewett also entertained recently with a dinner party of eight in honor of Mrs. Franklin A. Lowell, of St. Paul, Minn., sister of Comdr. John D. Manchester.

Mrs. Harold Jones, wife of Commander Jones, has gone East to visit her mother, Mrs. Whitson, in Washington. She was accompanied by her young son. Rear Admiral Uriel Sobree, U.S.N., retired, has been confined to his home in Coronado several days by illness.

In making a landing at North Island aviation field this morning a De Havilland piloted by Lieut. C. J. O'Connor, U.S.N., crashed into a lamp post and was completely wrecked. Lieutenant O'Connor escaped without injury.

FORT SAM HOUSTON.

Fort Sam Houston, Texas, June 11, 1921.

The 2d Division held battle exercises, June 8, in honor of Major Gen. Joseph T. Dickman, commanding the 8th Corps Area, and Major Gen. James G. Harbord, commanding the 2d Division, who is soon to leave for Washington to take up his duties as Assistant Chief of Staff of the Army.

Acting upon requests from the Mayor of Pueblo and welfare organizations there, Major General Dickman sent equipment sufficient to care for 2,000 persons to the flood area of Colorado on Wednesday. Lieut. Col. W. G. Caples was ordered from Fort Logan, Colo., to Pueblo to take personal charge of the relief work.

Forest patrol flights and similar military missions are to be brought within the authority of commanders of the various stations of the 8th Corps Area, to which air units are attached, according to a revision of general orders announced Wednesday. Military personnel other than Air Service pilots, observers and mechanics are not allowed to go on cross-country flights without authority from the commander of the 8th Corps Area, except in case of emergency.

Among those who entertained at the Country Club Saturday evening were Col. F. H. Adams, Capt. Read Wipprecht and Lieut. L. C. Ely. Mrs. Godwin entertained with a luncheon Thursday in honor of Mrs. Hobson and Mrs. Lamar. Covers were laid for eighteen. Mrs. Jadwin, wife of Lieut. C. G. Jadwin, former aide to Major Gen. James G. Harbord, left last week for a visit to her mother in New York. Later Mrs. Jadwin will join her husband, who will be stationed either in Washington or at Fort Riley.

Major Gen. James G. Harbord will depart Friday on a leave before taking up the duties of this office under General Pershing July 1. Brig. Gen. James H. McRae, commander of the 4th Infantry Brigade, will command the 2d Division temporarily, as no successor to General Harbord has been named. Mrs. Harbord is accompanying General Harbord on a visit to relatives and friends in Pennsylvania before going on to Washington.

PANAMA CANAL ZONE NOTES.

Balboa Heights, C.Z., June 6, 1921.

THE DRAKE

THE DRAKE is Chicago's wonderful new hotel, costing over eight millions of dollars to build and equip. It is on the attractive shore of Lake Michigan, five minutes from the heart of the city, near the center of things, yet in the quiet of a favored residential section, overlooking the lake and Lincoln Park. An ideal summer resort, bathing, boating and golfing, within a few minutes of its doors, yet it is a practical home for the busiest business man.

Single rooms, each with bath, $5.00 per day and upward.

Rooms for two as low as $3.00 for each person.

THE BLACKSTONE, under the same management as THE DRAKE, offers exceptional service and convenience to its guests. Situated on Michigan Boulevard, it looks out over Grant Park to Lake Michigan.

These hotels were selected only after most careful consideration, and members will find that, in these two splendid hostelries, representing the last word in hotel construction and operation, accommodation can be had to suit all ranges of incomes.

THE DRAKE and THE BLACKSTONE are but six minutes taxicab ride apart.

Both are under the direction of THE DRAKE HOTEL COMPANY.

Membership savings, of course, apply on all charges for rooms and food.

'WARE WASTE AND WEAR WELL!

Human Bodies Are Poisoned by Their Own Waste. Most Illnesses Are Preventable.

The human body has to be heated and fine foods burned inside the body produce much waste. All this waste should be removed from the body regularly, thoroughly, daily, by the eliminative organs,—which are the bowels, kidneys, skin, and to some extent the lungs. These should act in harmony—if the bowels are inactive extra effort is required of the others, which easily become deranged. Many medicines will force bowel action temporarily but the after-effects are harmful. Many remedies are advertised, some of which have proven year after year to be reliable, efficient, and without harmful action or effect. Take Beecham's Pills for example. For over 70 years Beecham's has been a household word all over the world. 70 years of use by all sorts of folks, men, women and even children, have proven first, that Beecham's Pills do what is claimed for them; second, that they are harmless, do not produce bad effects. Some medicine forces Nature to unnatural action. Other medicines, like those contained in Beecham's Pills assist Nature, act mildly, persuade and hence produce no harmful effects. It is common to find families in which Beecham's have been used by several generations, their use handed down from father to son and from mother to daughter.

That's the best possible recommendation for any remedy. Every druggist sells Beecham's, is glad to do so because he knows that their reputation has been won by merit.

The dread Pyorrhea begins with bleeding gums

PYORRHEA'S infecting germs cause many ills. Medical science has proved this. Many diseased conditions are now known often to be the result of Pyorrhea germs that breed in pockets about the teeth. Rheumatism, anaemia, nervous disorders and other diseases have been traced in many cases to this Pyorrhea infection. Don't let Pyorrhea work its wicked will on your body. Visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection.

And watch your gums yourself. Pyorrhea, which affects four out of five people over forty, begins with tender and bleeding gums; then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the poisons generated at their base.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has set in use Forhan's according to directions and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

The Depyro Co.,
11 Exchange St.,
Portland, Maine, Gentlemen—
I have prescribed Depyro Powder for about 300 patients and in every case very satisfactory results have been obtained. As a healing, soothing and cleansing agent for the gums and teeth, it has no equal.
I prescribe it not only in cases where pyorrhea prevails but as a cleansing agent because of its efficiency in removing film and deposits from the teeth. If others could see the results I have seen in the treatment of bleeding, sore, pyorrhetic gums by the use of Depyro Powder and Liquid, every dentist would prescribe it to every patient whose welfare he had at heart.
Very truly, G. G. HERR
